NEEDS DREDGING

THE CHANNEL OF THE NAPANEE RIVER AL- MOST CLOSED.

AN EFFORT WILL BE MADE TO HAVE GOVERNMENT SPEND
ABOUT $40,000 ON IM-PROVEMENTS.

The council chamber in the town hall was comfortably filled on Tuesday evening with the representative business and professional men of the town. There was also a goodly number of marine men present.

The meeting was called for the purpose of formulating a strong appeal to be presented to the Ottawa government to have the Napanee river dredged and placed in navigatable condition. Mr. J. L. Madill was chairman of the meeting.

The captain of the dredge, which was operating in the river for a short time a couple of months ago, was present and expressed the opinion that at least $40,000 would be needed to put the river in a proper condition. If this amount was expended a uniform channel could be made of about seventy-five feet in width and about thirteen and a half feet in depth. At present the channel is only about twenty-five feet in width and the depth is only sufficient to allow the coming up the river of the smaller crafts. Steamers the size of the Brockville find it dangerous in coming to Napanee, and the vessels hauling coal, etc., have to lighten their loads at the mouth of the river, and even at that have considerable difficulty in making the harbor. And then when they arrive they cannot get up close to the docks to unload.

The contention of the marine men is that instead of improving the river, the work done by the dredge a short time ago, has made it worse. This fact is explained by the captain of the dredge who said that owing to the small amount of money appropriated for the work, about $2800, a good clean job was not accomplished. He stated that when the dipper of the dredge would be hauled up from the bottom of the river full of mud, etc., the overflow from it, such as logs, stones, etc., caused a small ridge to form, and thus instead of improving the situation only aggravated the trouble. The question is a burning one and of the utmost importance to the town of Napanee. The different citizens who addressed the meeting urged that immediate action be taken. That statements of facts be secured from the different marine men who ply in these waters, and that a deputation of the town's most influential citizens be sent to Ottawa to lay the matter before the government in the strongest possible manner.

The following resolution was unanimously passed: "Moved by J. L. Madill, seconded by Dr. Vrooman, that this meeting of business and professional men of Napanee strongly urge upon the Government of Canada the necessity of further dredging the Napanee river between Napanee and Deseronto, as the channel has become practically closed to all but the smallest vessels, and respectfully asked that

The members of the company are: Captain James Collier, one of the oldest and best steamboat men known on the bay; Thos.
Chalmers, Fred Allison, W. H. Roblin, Thomas Gibbs and Fred Bristow. They have purchased from the Lehigh Cement Company the steamer Salisbury, a fine new boat about the size of the steamer Brookville, and only three years old. The company intends to operate her on the Prinyer-Napanee route, and during the excursion season will be open for charter--Picton possible manner.

The following resolution was unanimously passed: "Moved by J. L.
Madill, seconded by Dr. Vrooman, that this meeting of business and professional men of Napanee strongly urge upon the Government of Canada
the necessity of further dredging the Napanee river between Napanee and Deseronto, as the channel has become practically closed to all but the smallest vessels, and respectfully asked that suitable appropriation be made for that purpose."

In view of the facts above stated it can readily be seen how highly important it is that immediate action be taken, and the state of affairs be laid before the government at the earliest moment.

It is the intention next season to place a steamer on the Cressy, Adol-phustown and bay port route to run to Napanee daily, and a company has been organized and a boat purchased for this purpose. The steamer is said to be about the draught and capacity of the "Brockville," and thus make another good and strong reason why this question of navigation needs immediate attention.

Messrs. J. L. Madill, Dr. J. P. Vrooman, M. S. Madole, Thos. Symington and Mayor T. W. Simpson compose the committee who are collecting the evidence and putting it in shape, and who will, in all probability, form a part of the deputation to go to Ottawa
and present the case.

The above named gentlemen will make a report to the town council at its regular setting next Monday evening,
and will also recommend a deputation.

The following is a copy of a letter sent to Mr. F. S. Wartman in reference to the above question:

November 26th, 1909.

F. S. WARTMAN, Esq.,

Colebrook, Ont.

My dear Sir,--I am writing you again concerning the state of the Channel in the Napanee river. First,
I wish to thank you for the manifest interest you took in the removal of the wreck out of the Channel this summer (which as I wrote you was a menace to life and property) and for the dredging which was done to improve the navigation of the river, but which if left at this time in its present shape might far better not have been touched, yet, which if continued right on now, will make a great and necessary improvement. You are no doubt aware that the water is very low at this season of the year and particularly this year and the Government should be made aware of the necessity of immediate dredging at this favorable time, while the dredge is available.

I am doubly anxious for the completion of this dredging from the fact that my Company route our boats
during the present year for the next year's business and it is necessary that we have an idea of the extent of the work proposed in the channel this year,
before we can finally route our boats and the present conditions would of necessity debar us from stable calculation as to the safe navigation of the river.

Your good auspices have been well appreciated by the public and especially by everyone interested in marine trade on this river as a result of what you have already accomplished and if you will interest yourself another step and continue the work you will be the instrument of the Government conferring a great boon to the public.

Trusting you your assistance and again thanking you for past favors, I am,

Yours sincerely,

CAPT. CHRISTIE.

J. L. BOYES,

KILLED BY CARS

A distressing accident occurred on Monday, at noon, at Ernesttown Station. Miss N. S. Aylesworth, Bath, drove in to take the train for Montreal, due about noon, and when she alighted, she stepped behind the rig, which stopped close to the track, to take her valise. She did not notice the special train coming west. The cylinder of the engine struck her on the hip and hurled her to the ground. She was picked up unconscious and taken on the noon train for Kingston hospital, but she died soon after her arrival at the institution. Deceased was well known in Bath and Napanee. One brother, James Aylesworth, resides in Bath, and one sister, Mrs. Vanslyck, in the west. Deceased was connected with one of the best known families in Ernesttown, and her many friends will be pained to learn of her sudden and unexpected death. Miss Aylesworth passed away at the general hospital at 3.20 o'clock, before hardly anything could be done to relieve her suffering. Although she was still conscious, and remained so until death relieved her, she was in such a state from shock that the doctors united their efforts in trying to bring the patient to a sufficient state to stand an examination, but her injuries proved fatal before this could be done. A post-mortem examination was conducted by Dr. W. T. Connell, who found that her back was broken and her left hip badly crushed, besides other internal injuries. The remains

NEWS NOTES.

Kingston street cars are again running. Friday of last week an understanding was arrived at between the Street Railway Company and the city.

Mrs. Julia McDonald, who died at Rochester, N. Y., on 17th inst., was a resident of Tyendinaga, being a daughter of Daniel Black. A husband and five children survive.

Mr. Charles E. Ringer, of Picton, aged about 54 years, is missing. He left home Sunday afternoon and has not been seen since, and the supposition is that he has been drowned.

Between twenty and thirty Japanese railway laborers were killed by the collapse of a bridge under a work train on the Great Northern railway near Sapperton, B. C., early Sunday morning.

Sergt. Patrick Hayes, for thirty-two years a member of the Belleville police force, received word from the militia department that he had been appointed caretaker of the new armouries.

These be the days when men look at their neighbors with a critical eye, to see if the said neighbors are showing symptoms of being bitten by the microbe which causes the victims to run for aldermen.

The Whig of Tuesday says: "Late on Saturday night a man entered the house of Louis Tisdale, Barrfield, and hid until the family went to bed. When he crept upstairs he awakened Mrs. Tisdale, who called for help. The would-be burglar escaped, having left the doors ajar for a hasty retreat." Mr. and Mrs. Tisdale are former residents of Napanee.

One of Prince Edward's oldest native born citizens, a man known far and wide for his whole-hearted hospitality, Mr. John Prinzyer, passed away, at the family home, Prinzyer's Cove, in North Marysburgh, on Friday, November, 26th, about five o'clock. The late Mr. Prinzyer had reached the very advanced age of 91 years, having celebrated his birthday in September of this year.

The cold snap of last week brought navigation about to a close. The Brockville could not make her trip up the Bay on Saturday, owing to the thin ice in the harbor, and will go into winter quarters at Deseronto. The Reindeer has been hauled out at Deseronto where she will undergo repairs during the winter. The Aletha expects to run the remainder of this week, weather permitting, then she will be taken to Deseronto for the winter. Considerable repairs and improvements are to be made to her this winter.

BELL ROCK.

Rev. Dalton Platt preached an eloquent sermon here on Sunday last.

There was a good attendance at P. J. Turpash's sale on Saturday.

There will be a mass meeting in favor of local option held in the Methodist church here, on the 3rd inst., a good attendance is hoped for.

Mrs. Fred Snider is in attendance on her mother, who is very ill.

Louis Turpash, who has been very ill is still very low.

Recent visitors: Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Amey and family, of Moscow, at J. Yorke's; Mr. Peter Taylor, Mr. J. Taylor and Mrs. McQuade, Lakefield, Ont., at Mrs. Moir's; Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Shorts, Newburgh, at Wm. Walker's; Mr. and Mrs. L. Baudeur at W. F. Pomeroy's; Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Reynolds, Harrowsmith, at Mrs. Martin's.

DENBIGH.

Mr. M. Youmans left for New Ontario to spend the winter in one of the Lumber camps there. Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Greer and Mrs. Dr. Adams are on the sick list.

Word was received that Mrs. S. Slater, who for about a year and a half has been a patient in Rockwood Asylum, Kingston, died last week and Mr. S. Slater went out to attend to her interment.

The Municipal Council met yesterday at the Denbigh House. Considerable business of general importance was transacted. A By-Law was also passed appointing Polling places for the next ensuing municipal election and Deputy Returning Officer to hold the polls. Mr. Chas. C. Stein was appointed for Polling Sub. Division No. one, (Denbigh) and Mr. John Gilmour for Polling Sub. Division No. two, (Vennachar).

The nomination meeting will be held on Dec. 13th in Bebee's Hall in Denbigh village. A very interesting time is expected.

BATH.

The death of Miss N. S. Aylesworth, which was caused by an accident at Ernestown Station, on Monday last, has cast a feeling of sorrow over the whole village. The deceased has been a resident of the village for a number of years and was a faithful and earnest worker in the Methodist church and Sunday school of which she was a member. Especially in the Sunday school, where she had taught a number of years in the primary department. The little ones had in her a faithful friend and one whom they will remember. The sympathy of the whole village and surrounding community is extended to those whom she left behind. She was a daughter of the late Peter Perry Aylesworth and leaves one sister, Mrs. A. Vanslyck, Sutherland, Man., and James at home. Mrs. Vanslyck was unable to come to the funeral. The funeral services were held on Thursday at one o'clock, after which the remains were taken to the Morven cemetery. Among those from a distance attending the funeral were: Dr. F. A. Aylesworth and wife, Poseneath; Mrs. R. H. Baker, Napanee; Miss Briggs, Napanee; Miss Mary Hawley, Belleville; Mrs. Alex. Rose, Kingston; Mrs. R. J. Green, Oak Leaf.

Last Thursday evening, given by the ladies of the Methodist church, was a success. The sum of $50.00 was realized.

OLD DUTCH TEA GARDENS

LOCATED ON THE BANKS OF THE CANALS.

They Are, Through Use of Bicycle and Motor, Again Becoming Popular.

On the old canal from Delt to Leyden, Holland, is a tea garden that has existed there time out of mind. More than 250 years ago it is mentioned in local chronicles, and it is on record that all the windows of the house and pavilions were broken when the awful gunpowder explosion destroyed a large part of Leiden in the eighteenth century. The canals in those days were the highways of traffic, and all the finest houses and most beautiful country seats were situated on their borders, the edifices turning their best side toward the water so that the best rooms would command a good view of the passers by. If the house could not be brought sufficiently close to the canal border, a summer house, generally circular in shape, with windows on all sides, was placed on the immediate edge of the water, often overhanging it. Every country seat and house had its own landing stage, a rowing boat and bathhouse.

PREFERRED CANAL BANKS.

Of course, the amusement resorts had to conform to this preference for the water, so it is not so wonderful that nearly all the old Dutch tea gardens were placed near some busy canal. These tea gardens were a great institution, where the burghers with their families would come on summer evenings to drink tea or eat sour cream with rusk and sugar. Sundays the gardens were filled all day long. At noon coffee and rolls were partaken of there, and later on tea was again indulged in. The children found plenty to amuse them, for there were swings, seesaws and lots of rowing boats.

Barges glided by continually, some towed by horses, others by men, women and children. Often three or four children and a little dog rode a heavily laden boat, while the father of the family pushed it along with a pole and so eased the strain for those on the towpath. But the passenger barges were those of interest, for none of these would stop at the landing stage of the tea garden and deposit a goodly load of new visitors.

PASSENGER BARGES GONE.

The canal and freight barges are still the same, but the gay green and white painted passenger barges have passed from the scene, and the tea garden itself has gone through many vicissitudes. Some of the establishments led a dreary existence for many years, the paint on the summer houses and pavilions getting dingier and dingier, and some crumbled into decay altogether. None with any pretensions to gentility visited the tea gardens any more, and finally only the laboring people kept true to the old places. But there came an astonishing revival, due chiefly to the bicycle, and later to the automobile. The tea garden has again become fashionable and many a crumbling old establishment has

UNCLE HIRAM TO NEPHEW.

On the Inadvisability of Nursing a Grouch.

"Don't Henry," said Uncle Hiram to his hopeful young nephew, "don't nurse a grouch. Nobody has any use for a man or a boy with a grouch.

"Suppose you were the boss and you had in your employ a boy who thought he wasn't getting pay enough, and suppose this boy should get so dissatisfied over this that it made him grouchy. Then you'd see him going around attending to his work all right, maybe, but all the time half sullen over it, sour faced, glum, dissatisfied and showing that he was dissatisfied in everything he did; grouchy and nursing his grouch all the time and making it plain to everybody and making everybody in the place uncomfortable.

"To be sure he'd be only a boy and you'd be the boss and you could fire him if you wanted to, but you wouldn't want to do that and so you'd help him along, but it wouldn't be pleasant to have him around; and if he didn't get over his grouch, why, sooner or later you'd be pretty sure to let him go. Isn't that so? You wouldn't want around you anybody that was nursing a grouch.

"Now take your own case, Henry. You are a young fellow just starting in and you haven't had much experience, but you are learning fast and you are working faithfully and working hard, just a-plugging away the best you know how, and you've learned enough about the business now so that you think your work is really of service to the concern, and maybe it is, and you think you don't get enough pay.

"That's all right, Henry. You can ask for more pay if you want to, but I'd advise you to go slow about that. Better to keep plugging a while longer as you are and pile up a bigger credit for yourself in your employer's esteem.

"But whatever happens don't get grouchy. That would queer the whole business and upset all you've done.

"You see, Henry, the boss has his troubles that maybe you don't know anything about, and they may be greater than yours; but he has to put up a good front and look cheerful, and he thinks you ought to. As a matter of fact we all have our troubles, and nobody has any use for the man with a grouch, who thinks his petty troubles are more important than anybody else's.

"In fact, you will discover as you grow older, Henry, that let alone the grouchy men, nobody cares much for a man with a grievance of any sort, not even if it has a good ground; the man that comes to us complaining is apt to tire us.

"So, Henry, remember. If you think you are not getting all that's coming to you or that you are not appreciated, don't get grouchy over it, that's the very worst thing for yourself you could do. Give the boss a chance and if he doesn't rise to it in a reasonable time, why, then you can kick if you want to, but you must do this in fair good humor.

HERE IS A CASE IN POINT

WHY SOME GIRLS SUE FOR BREACH OF PROMISE.

Girl is Jilted Simply Because She Shows Her Real Self Before Marriage.

The reader of breach-of-promise cases must often wonder how it is that a man goes so far as to become engaged, write the most passionate love-letters, spend every night in the week with his girl, arrange for the wedding, order the furniture, and then suddenly turn round and tell the girl he doesn't think he will marry her after all.

As a rule, it is generally put down to the inconstancy of man, but reading between the lines there is evidence in many cases that the girl is jilted simply because she shows her true self before marriage.

$750 DAMAGES.

Here is a case in point. The writer recently met a young fellow who had been mulcted to the extent of $750 damages for breaking his engagement to a girl who had worn his ring for twelve months.

"A nice mess you've made of things," I remarked.

"Should have made a bigger mess if I had married her," he grimly replied. "My word, she would have been a handful. I got out of it cheap at $750, although it will take me about ten years to pay it.

"One day I met a chum I had not seen for six years. We had a convivial time together, and, unfortunately, I forgot I had an appointment with my young lady. However, I hurried away and reached her house about an hour and a half late. I was just about to ring the bell when I heard her voice through the open window threatening me with all sorts of

for daring to miss the appointment — this, mark you, before she had heard a word of explanation from me; and because her mother ventured to remonstrate with her, she turned round on the dear old lady and told her she did not know what she was talking about. That was good enough for me, and I cleared off. I wouldn't have married the girl if she had $5,000 a year of her own."

There is not the least doubt, too, that many girls are jilted for the simple reason that they get an exaggerated notion of what may be termed courtship rights and privileges. There is a type of girl who, the moment she consents to become a man's wife, thinks that consent entitles her to an entire subservience to her wishes on the part of the man. She expects him to be at her beck and call at all times, to sacrifice his pleasure for her own, and to cater for her amusement in every possible way. If he fails in any one of these respects she proceeds to take him to task, and the result is that the man decides that she is not the girl for him.

FAULTS OF PARENTS.

It will often be found, too, that parents are mixed up in breach-of-promise cases rather prominently. A man naturally resents being told that he should not do this and that

PERSONAL PARAGRAPHS.

A Few Stories About Well-known People.

The Czar of Russia is said to be one of the unhappiest of monarchs, and he lives in continual fear of the anarchists' bomb. Since the attempt to kill Alexander II. by exploding a bomb under the dining-room table at the Winter Palace, it has been the custom at the Russian Court to change the dining-room almost daily. This fact once elicited an amusing remark from the Czar's little daughter, the Grand Duchess Tatiana. One day, when the Imperial dinner was laid in the Czarina's boudoir the little girl exclaimed: "Next time, I suppose we shall lunch in the bathroom!"

Queen Margherita of Italy, whose excessive motoring is said to have caused her to have a nervous breakdown, has always been fond of outdoor exercise and strenuous sport. Some time ago while she was touring in the Swiss mountains, she and her party were overtaken by a violent snowstorm. Her guides led her to a little hut, which was already filled with a group of tourists. Recognizing the Queen, they naturally made way for her, but she would not let them move. "No, no," she said, "this hut is large enough for all of us. Remain, I beg you, and let me be your hostess." Without another word, she began to stir the fire that the tourists had kindled, and as the storm showed no sign of abating, decided to remain in the hut all night. When morning at last dawned, the tourists were amazed to find that the Queen was the only person who had not been to sleep. All through the long hours she had kept the fire alight, and was the freshest member of the party when the time came to continue her journey.

Mme. Calve, the great singer, was once being conducted over a famous grotto on the Continent when she suddenly broke into song. The small boy who was acting as her guide listened quietly until she had finished, and then remarked: "If you went and asked the proprietor whether you might sing in here while the people are being shown round, I think he would pay you well." "Oh," said Mme. Calve, highly amused, "and how much do you think he would give me?" The lad thought carefully for a minute, and then replied: "About five francs a day." The famous prima donna naturally did not tell the boy who she was, but he must have been somewhat surprised later on when he beheld the large amount of the "tip" that Mme. Calve had slipped into his hand.

An amusing hoax was played not long ago upon M. Clemenceau, the French Premier. Some practical joker sent out numbers of invitations to people all over Paris to a big dinner at the Premier's house. Some days afterwards, M. Clemenceau was surprised to receive letters from total strangers accepting "his kind invitation to dinner" and thanking him most cordially. Now, the Premier is a man of wit, and, instead of flying into a temper, he realized that someone had been playing a trick upon him, so he gave orders for a dinner, and it was duly held. His unknown guests were highly delighted at being in the company of the distinguished states-together. None with any pretensions to gentility visited the tea gardens any more, and finally only the laboring people kept true to the old places. But there came an astonishing revival, due chiefly to the bicycle, and later to the automobile. The tea garden has again become fashionable and many a crumbling old establishment has shone forth with new plate-glass windows, extensive verandahs, and new plans. New summer houses have been built and many new rowing boats are temptingly waiting along the landing stage. All day long the old garden is filled with gay young visitors.

WHEN TEA WAS FIRST USED

Sitting under the flowering linden trees in the old garden watching the barges lazily gliding with the cheerful tea kettle humming its little song on its warm stove near at hand, one's thoughts revert to the olden days when tea was first introduced into Holland. What a revolution it created in the household! It will scarcely be believed that many a family was almost ruined by it. Tea was first brought into Holland by the East India Company and Holland was drinking tea some time before France or England knew of it. In the middle of the 17th century tea was given as a medicine and some doctors were so enthusiastic about its results that they prescribed it as a kind of elixir of life, warranted to cure every variety of illness.

Some people drank from ten to fifty cups a sitting. Tea was not taken with milk in those days but with sugar and saffron. Tea was an expensive luxury in those days, costing as much as 50 or even 100 or 120 florins a pound, and all the accessories of the tea-table had to be of extreme richness.

TEAROOM SURROUNDINGS.

A tearoom was set apart in all stylish homes, with a special tea-table and chairs, and this was kept entirely for entertaining guests. These tea-tables were costly affairs, often of Japanese lacquer work inlaid with silver, ivory and mother of pearl. The tea-cups were of the most delicate china and Japanese porcelain. The teapots were often of fantastic shapes. The square mats printed with golden designs were gaily and valuable. Others were hand-painted with the family crest and arms.

The dress of the company was just as fine in its kind as the trappings of the tea-table, so that the expenditure necessitated by tea drinking became so great that the moralists of the time poured forth the vials of their wrath on tea, referring to it as "that destroyer of domestic peace" and "that demolisher of the fortunes of our citizens."

Tea drinking has not been put down by the fulminations of its critics, but the exaggerated veneration for tea may gradually give place to a more quiet appreciation of its merits. Even now Holland ranks second in Europe as a tea-drinking nation, following immediately after England in the quantity consumed per meal.

LUXURIOUS BURGLAR.

Lived in a Cave and Drank the Finest of Wines.

A wild man of the woods, who has lived in the forests and hills on the Swiss shore of Lake Constance for the last two years, was arrested recently near Herisau.

He is an escaped German convict named Joseph Saeher, who, in spite of his strange habits, lived in great luxury. He is a middle-aged man of great strength. He lived in a state of nature, inhabiting a cave in a mountain, but by burglary obtained the best food and drink. The cave contained a large quantity of fine wines, champagnes, liqueurs, preserved game and fruits, a silver table service, a quantity of linen, but no money. All the goods had been stolen, as the wild man admitted to the police.

"A few years' imprisonment, and then I shall enjoy myself again," he said when arrested. No charge of violence can be brought against Saeher. He never carried arms. He will be tried next week at Herisau.

BLIND MEN'S STRIKES.

Employees of Charitable Institution Complain of Pay.

A pathetic strike of blind men has just been satisfactorily settled in Paris, after having lasted little more than a week. The meeting was held in a Paris wine shop parlor. Audience and speakers were employed in a charitable institution where they made brushes, having been taught the handicraft in the establishment.

The men declared that the institution makes undue profits out of them and hinders them from working by the piece for their own benefit at home. This statement has been denied by the management, who say that the men employed by them would otherwise have to beg in the streets.

At the meeting the other day those men who could half see acted as ushers and led their more afflicted mates to their places. Nearly all the speakers were as sightless as the Chairman himself, who had to be led to his chair. Each man was led to his place on the platform and told how to face the audience. In spite of their sightless eyes and their blind hearers, the speakers delivered fiery addresses, accompanied by vehement gestures.

NEW BRITISH DESTROYERS.

Twenty of the Fastest Vessels of Their Class Afloat.

The twenty new British destroyers for which contracts were placed a short time ago will be the fastest vessels of their class afloat. Their speed will be something over thirty knots; indeed, they are expected to reach a speed of thirty-three knots, and do it in a sea in which the smaller torpedo boats could make little or no headway.

These vessels are to be built in twenty months and are expected to make the British navy supreme in the arm of powerful and swift torpedo destroyers.

needs to take him to task, and the result is that the man decides that she is not the girl for him.

FAULTS OF PARENTS.

It will often be found, too, that parents are mixed up in breach-of-promise cases rather prominently. A man naturally resents being told that he should not do this and that by the parents of his prospective bride. As one magistrate remarked a short time ago while listening to a breach-of-promise case, in which it was shown that one of the reasons of the broken engagement was the dictatorial attitude on the part of the girl's parents, "What a lot of trouble and bother would be saved if there were not so many foolish busybodies in the world!"—London Tit-Bits.

FORGOT 60,407 ARTICLES.

Absent-Minded People on the Increase in London.

Absent-mindedness is on the increase in London, according to Scotland Yard statistics, which show that the number of articles left in cabs, omnibuses and tram cars last year was 60,407. This is 2,770 more than in 1907.

Only 26,571 articles of the value of $134,090, were restored to their owners. The others, with a few exceptions, were returned to the drivers and conductors who deposited them. The rewards paid to drivers and conductors amounted to $18,590. One man received $153 and four others $100 each.

The number of persons killed in street accidents has also increased. It was 283 in 1907 and 326 last year. The number of those injured in street accidents was 16,674, as compared with 16,772 in 1907 and 14,000 in 1906. Of last year's deaths 159 were caused by motor vehicles, including tram cars.

According to further statistics from Scotland Yard there was less serious crime in London last year, although the total number of people arrested was 1,503 higher. Burglaries decreased from 547 to 507, and house-breakings from 1,362 to 1,762. The value of property stolen was $46,050.

There were four cases of murder during the year in which the guilty persons have not yet been traced.

TWO SNAILS PULL A POUND.

They Haul a Toy Cannon, Carriage and Load of Shot.

One day by way of experiment, says a writer in the Strand, "I harnessed two common garden snails to a toy gun carriage to see if they could pull it along. Although the gun carriage was heavy, of lead, the snails pulled it so easily that I loaded the body of the carriage with small shot.

The snails, however, were more than equal to the task. Anxious to test their strength still further I attached a toy cannon made of lead and brass behind the gun carriage, but the snails and their additional load moved on once again with the same apparent ease.

"Out of curiosity I decided to weigh the cannon, gun carriage and shot, and to my great surprise found the total weight to be almost one pound. I venture to think this a very good load for two snails to manage."

"his kind invitation to dinner" and thanking him most cordially. Now, the Premier is a man of wit, and, instead of flying into a temper, he realized that someone had been playing a trick upon him, so he gave orders for a dinner, and it was duly held. His unknown guests were highly delighted at being in the company of the distinguished statesman, but their ardor was somewhat damped when, after the banquet, their host broke the news to them that their presence there was really due to a choice little joke which had been perpetrated by some person or persons unknown. Naturally, the disappointed diners hastened to depart as soon as they conveniently could.

SOLDIER'S ROMANTIC CAREER

Granted Both Free Pardon and a Pension by War Office.

After an absence of forty years John Peck, a native of Nottingham, returned to England recently and discovered that he was still liable to be arrested for having deserted from his regiment in 1869. His career, however, has been so remarkable that when the facts were related the War Office not only granted him a free pardon but a pension as well.

Peck ran away from home at the age of twenty and went to sea. He subsequently joined the Army and served in the Crimea. After peace was declared he got transferred to another regiment and was ordered out to India, where he went through the Mutiny. Later he quarrelled with an officer and deserted.

He had a hard time as a South African diamond prospector, but whenever a chance of fighting occurred he always embraced it, and so he served against the Basutos, the Zulus, and the Boers. His relatives had not heard of him for fifty-three years, when he recently reappeared. He is now seventy-two years of age and is bent on going back to South Africa to find work in the mines.

HAS SEVEN SECRETARIES.

British Chancellor of the Exchequer Creates a Record.

The Chancellor of the Exchequer has created a record in the number of his private secretaries. He has no less than seven, and no doubt his famous budget has been then all but a g. Of course, in addition to these seven private secretaries, there is an army of permanent advisers to the Treasurer, as well as the special experts who have been called in at various times to advise Lloyd George on the Finance Bill.

The Prime Minister employs four private secretaries. Sir Edward Grey at the Foreign Office has three in addition to a precis writer. Herbert Gladstone, Lord Morley, and Winston Churchill also have three each, while John Burns has two.

FOR FAITHFUL SERVICES

DOMESTIC SERVANTS AS LUCKY LEGATEES.

Nurses Have Been Bequeathed Fortunes — Coachmen are Not Forgotten.

The report that M. Chauchard, the French millionaire, who died recently, had left a fortune of no less than $10,000,000 to a lady who had nursed him for many years recalls one or two other instances of lucky nurses who have figured prominently in the wills of grateful patients.

In September last a London nurse, Miss Rose Holliday, who had nursed, during a painful illness of several years, a Brighton gentleman, found after his death, that he had left her $110,000, as well as the residue of his property. Miss Holliday was a member of the Registered Nurses' Society, and shortly before a member of the same society had received a legacy of $5,000 a year for life from a patient to whom she had given long attendance, says London Tit-Bits.

A ROMANTIC EPISODE.

Exceedingly romantic were the circumstances under which Mr. Alex Wyness, of Warwickshire, in 1903, left his whole estate, which ran into six figures, to his nurse, Miss Love. Mr. Wyness was stricken with smallpox, and the doctor secured Miss Love, a former patient, as his nurse. Miss Love tended her patient most assiduously, and, as she was the same age as Mr. Wyness, the professional connection ripened into something else. As days passed, and Mr. Wyness realized the futility of battling against the disease, he made his last will and testament, leaving his whole wealth to Miss Love. Strangely enough he stipulated that she was to receive her fortune on her wedding morn.

Forty thousand dollars was the amount bequeathed five years ago to a female bookkeeper of Milwaukee by an old man—a stranger—whom she had aided for a few minutes when he had been taken ill in a train three years previously; while in the same year Mr. Edward Brick, a Baltimore banker, left his nurse $10,000.

LUCKY COACHMEN.

As a reward for her faithful services, Miss Margaret Young, some time ago, received a bequest of $45,000 from Mrs. Nevins, the widow of Colonel Nevins, a wealthy cotton manufacturer; while Mrs. Schley, a wealthy American widow, left special bequests of $5,000 each to her coachmen and two cooks, and $10,000 to several other servants. Lily Duchess of Marlborough left $5,000 to her butler, $2,500 to her gardener, and an annuity of $400 to her maid.

Coachmen, like nurses, however, seem to find special favor with employers. Five years ago Mr. D. S. Carr, of Twerton-on-Avon, left his coachman, Parsons, a legacy of $10,000 and all the horses and poultry on the estate; while twelve months previously Mr. William Mills, brother of the well-known Mr. D. Ogden Mills, died and left his coachman, Frank Smith, of Buf-

FEWER MEN IN FRANCE

DIFFICULTY IN RAISING MEN FOR THE ARMY.

France Drawing on Colonies for "Savage Hordes," as German Says.

The decreasing birth rate in France seriously abridges the number of those available for the army. This difficulty is increased by the law which demands of conscripts only two years with the colors. France in this respect stands at a serious disadvantage with regard to her neighbor on the other side of the Vosges, where large families are the rule and not the exception, and an abundant crop of youths are always ready to join the imperial forces. It is calculated by Lieut.-Col. Roussel in the Liberte (Paris) that if France were confronted by a war twenty years hence, judging from her dwindling forces, she would be five army corps short. It is therefore seriously proposed by another officer of the French army, Lieut.-Col. Mangin, that France should utilize the population of Africa, not only for colonial troops, but also for home defence. In her North-West African possessions she has already organized the Algerian Tirailleurs, numbering 26,000 men.

CONSCRIPTS IN ALGERIA.

Col. Roussel mentions the proposal that this contingent be increased by establishing the conscription in Algeria.

He then proceeds to enlarge upon the proposal of his friend Lieut.-Col. Mangin, "an officer well known for his services in foreign lands and his full acquaintance with colonial matters." Colonel Mangin proposes that a negro army be raised from Senegal, French Soudan, and the hitherto untouched recruiting ground for the French Congo, and his proposal "has generally been well received and welcomed by a kindly press."

The German press do not like the idea, however, for they learned what the Algerian Tirailleurs were like at the battle of the Weissenburg, where France received her first defeat in the Franco-Prussian War. Thus the Frankfurter Zeitung declares:

"It is impossible to believe that our soldiers may be once more called upon to confront these savage hordes."

WHAT THEY DID TO GERMANY

"Savage hordes" asks the writer in the Liberte. The Algerian Tirailleurs behaved like gallant and civilized soldiers, and took six pieces of cannon from the Germans. The flag of the Second Tirailleurs was actually planted by them on the ramparts of Strasburg. And, moreover, he asks, "what excesses did they ever commit that could tarnish the glorious renown with which their flag is illuminated?" The Colonel concludes as follows:

"The Minister of War has every possible reason for enrolling for the general defence of the country any of our foreign subjects. And as these show no inclination to refuse a service of which they already recognize the honor, everything leads us to the hope that we shall soon

A DANGEROUS MOMENT.

Pluck of Sir Samuel Baker's Wife Won the Day.

In his book, "Exploration of the Nile Sources," Sir Samuel Baker relates an incident which illustrates the wonderful influence which a woman sometimes exerts over men in calming their excited passions and restoring discipline, when perhaps nothing else would have served the purpose. He had arrived at Gondokoro, accompanied by his wife and a large company of attendants. There were large numbers of traders' people in this place whose time was passed in all kinds of mischief.

After a few days' detention at Gondokoro I saw unmistakable signs of discontent among my men, who evidently had been tampered with by the different traders' parties.

One evening several of the most disaffected came to me with a complaint that they had not enough meat, and making very unreasonable demands, which were, of course, refused. They then went away, muttering insolent threats.

I said nothing at the time, but early on the following morning I ordered the drum to beat and the men to fall in; and I then addressed them, reminding them of their agreement to follow me faithfully.

The only effect of my address was a great outbreak of insolence on the part of the ringleader of the previous evening. This fellow was so violently impertinent that I ordered him twenty-five lashes, as an example to the others.

Upon the attendant, Saati, advancing to seize him, there was a general mutiny. Many of the men threw down their guns and seized sticks, and rushed to the rescue of their ringleader. Saati was a little man, and was perfectly helpless.

Here was an escort! These were the men upon whom I was to depend in hours of difficulty and danger on an expedition in unknown regions!

I was determined not to be "done," and accordingly went toward the ringleader, with the intention of seizing him. But he, being backed up by upward of forty men, had the impertinence to attack me, rushing forward with a fury that was ridiculous.

To stop his blow and to knock him into the middle of the crowd was not difficult; and after a rapid repetition of the dose, I disabled him, and calling to Saati for a rope to bind him, I held the man firmly.

In an instant I had a crowd of men upon me to rescue their leader.

How the affair would have ended I cannot say; but as the scene lay within ten yards of my boat, my wife, who was ill with fever in the cabin, witnessed the whole affray; and seeing me surrounded, she rushed out, and in a few moments was in the middle of the crowd, who at that time were endeavoring to rescue my prisoner.

Her sudden appearance had a curious effect, and calling upon several of the least mutinous to assist, she very pluckily made her way up to me. Seizing the opportunity of an indecision that for the moment was evinced by the crowd, I shouted to the drummer-boy to beat the drum.

In an instant the drum beat, and at the top of my voice I ordered the men to fall in.

Two-thirds of the men fell in and

"Unfortunately for this theory, it is not fully supported by the facts. The truth, as we have pointed out, is that the conditions are made more favorable for intestinal putrefaction by the retention of the intestinal secretions, by the exclusion of air and by the exclusion of fruits, the starch and sugar food elements which hinder putrefaction and are of the greatest service in cleansing the intestine. SEEING BEYOND THE THINGS

We Have No Friends Until We Learn to See
Beyond Faces and to Know Folks

"Lift up thine eyes round about and see."—Is. lx., 4.

Vision is the only measure of life, and vision depends on elevation and outlook. A man has what he sees and no more; he is what he sees and no other. Life is not from without inward, dependent on that which impresses itself on us, but from within out, dependent on what we can perceive, appreciate, and possess within our souls.

There are the birds that roost on the Parthenon; they may know its crevices and fragments most intimately, yet their possession is in no degree comparable to that which blesses a man who may have no more than a few photographs, who perchance has not seen so much as a fragment of the ancient edifice. Possession depends on powers within.

A man may have many acres to his name and yet all that land be less his, if it is only acres to him, than it is the property of the barefoot boy who knows where the squirrels hide their winter's store, where the thrush has her nest, and where the first arbutus is to be found. The soul is the faculty which makes possession possible.

Only one in ten has the power of seeing and perhaps less than one in a hundred the power of vision. We are so anxious to fill our hands that we shut our eyes to the real values of life and so starve our hearts. The most unpractical being in the world is the practical man who knows only things, who scoffs at the poets and the idealists. Much goods may stand in his name, but he is

and no more.

It is so with our friendships. People are to use just what we see in them. To some all other persons are only so many faces or names, so many individuals to be known and used; but to the man of vision they are lives, hearts, spirits rich and ripe with the experiences and aspirations of living.

Religion is that spirit which in all ages has enabled men to see the higher values; it has taught the race, through lessons becoming clearer in each generation, the worth of the things not seen, of the line of the spirit, of love and devotion, of sacrifice and duty, of character and idealism. The religious man lives for the joys and aims not only by the eyes that look above things.

The religious life is that one which interprets all living in the light of the vision of higher values, which cultivates the habit of seeing beyond the things to their meanings, beyond the letter to the spirit, beyond the forms to their rich content, which lives not for the fading treasures easily grasped by the senses, but for those stored in heart and memory.

This is the spirit that makes all the difference in life to us all. He who has no vision beyond things is bound to live as the brutes. Love and sacrifice, mercy and truth, are but empty sounds to him. Life must be governed by physical needs; there are no values beyond those shown by the senses and therefore to him those passions and ideals which have made glorious yesterday's page are but

WEAKNESSES AND FOLLY.

But the life of the spirit reaches out to a larger world; it feels forces too fine for the senses; it beholds glories never seen by the eye; it hears music never set on printed page; to it the things that are not are the things that most truly are, and the things worth living for are those blindly missed by earthly eyes, the love of friend, the joy of doing good and fading truth.

How foolish are we who lay waste the best of our powers fighting one against another for the poorest things that earth affords when heaven is open right before us, when in ways available to the weakest the greatest glories and highest values are to be found. The things for which our hearts eternally hunger are ever close to our hands.

Too late we learn that happiness and richness of living are matters wholly dependent on how we look at life and what we seek to get and give in it. To believe in goodness, to rejoice in life as just an hour given us in which to love and serve, to live for the truth before us, this is to find fullness of living.

Lesson X. Paul on the Grace of Giving, 2 Cor. 8. 1-15. Golden Text, Acts 20. 35.

Verses 1-5. Example of generous giving in the Macedonian churches. 1. Brethren—Striking the characteristic note of the entire chapter, brotherly love.

The grace of God—The true inspiration of the liberal giving of mandment—An enforced liberality would rob it of that very spontaneity which makes it a virtue. But some at Corinth had treated Paul's appeal for money as a desire to get control of their possessions, and he is anxious to show them that his only purpose is to test the sincerity of their professed loyalty by enabling them to give as freely as the Macedonians.

9. The highest incentive to generous giving for the poor is in the manifestation of that grace in the humiliation and self-denial of Christ Jesus our Lord (a word which magnifies the condescension of Christ, as Paul does again in Phil. 2:5-8).

He was rich—Calling attention to the glory surrounding that form of existence which he had with the

HOME.

TASTY DESSERTS.

Orange Shortcake.—One quart of sifted flour, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one teaspoonful of salt, one tablespoonful of white sugar. Mix thoroughly. Then add three tablespoonfuls of butter and sweet milk sufficient to make soft dough. Roll out in three layers, slightly butter each layer, lay one on top of the other, bake twenty-two minutes, separate the layers while warm, place bottom crust on plate, cover with sliced orange, sprinkle thickly with sugar, lay on second crust, and proceed as before; dust top with fine sugar, serve while warm with cream and sugar. Bananas or peaches may be used instead of oranges.

Pineapple Fluff.—One cup pineapple chopped fine, one-half cup chopped English walnuts, one cup cream, whipped, one-fourth pound marshmallows. Cut the marshmallows into quarters with the scissors, mix nuts and pineapple, and add whipped cream.

Apple Cup Custard.—Pare and core three large apples. Steam till tender and press through colander; while hot add one tablespoonful of butter, three large tablespoonfuls of butter, three large tablespoonfuls of sugar, yolks three eggs, and three-fourths cupful milk. Bake in small custard cups like ordinary custards. When done heap with meringue made of whites left over, brown lightly, and serve cold.

Pineapple Carmel.—Boil in double boiler two cupfuls of brown sugar, one-half cupful tapioca that has been soaked over night, add water enough to cover, stir frequently, and cook until a clear amber jelly has been formed and all tapioca has been thoroughly dissolved. Pour into a dish or mold containing chopped pineapple. Serve cold, with whipped cream containing English walnuts and candied cherries.

Fruit Pudding.—Two cupfuls of brown sugar, half cupful of butter, four eggs, leaving out the whites of two. Beat all together, add flour enough to make stiff batter with two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, then stir in a quart of any kind of fruit—berries are best. Bake about an hour. Serve with hard sauce.

Angel Ice.—For two quarts take juice of five lemons, two heaping cupfuls granulated sugar, add three cups boiling water. Mix together, strain through cloth, and allow to cool. Then put in freezer and lastly add beaten white of one egg. Freeze for about twenty minutes, then let stand for half hour before serving.

Apple Pudding.—One cupful of milk, two tablespoonfuls of shortening butter and lard, two teaspoonfuls of shortening butter and lard, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, a good pinch of salt, flour enough to thicken. Fill the bottom of a baking pan with apples cut in small pieces and sugared; add a little cinnamon to the apples and cover batter over them. Bake twenty minutes in a hot oven. Serve with caramel sauce.

Fig Pudding.—One cupful of chopped suet, one pound of figs, three eggs, two cupfuls of bread-crumbs, and cupful of sugar.

from their juice. Place some of the fruit between two of the circles, press the edges firmly together, and fry in deep fat. When cold roll in pulverized sugar. There is a secret connected with the making of these particular doughnuts and that is how to prevent them from splitting open while frying. Many a housewife has experienced this difficulty in making like viands. It is easily and absolutely overcome by the simple method of wetting the edges of the dough with milk before pressing them together.

Doughnuts.—One and one-quarter cupfuls sugar, two egg yolks, and one whole one, one teaspoonful of salt, one cupful of sweet milk, four and one-half cupfuls of flour, one teaspoonful of soda, two teaspoonfuls of cream of tartar, and one-quarter teaspoonful of nutmeg. Beat eggs. Add sugar and milk, then sift dry ingredients and add. Put in the ice box over night. In the morning roll about one-quarter of an inch and cut with a doughnut cutter and fry in hot fat, but not too quick. Drain on brown paper.

Potato Doughnuts.—Four medium sized potatoes, two tablespoonfuls of melted lard, one cupful of sugar, two eggs, one cupful of sweet milk, one teaspoonful of salt, three teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Flavor with nutmeg and add enough flour to make soft dough. Fry in hot fat. Boil and mash the potatoes, add lard, sugar, beaten eggs, and whip thoroughly until light. Then add the milk and other ingredients. Sour milk and soda may be used if preferred.

SALADS.

Grapefruit Salad.—Grapefruit and white grape salad. Cut the grapefruit into small sections free from white pith and seeds. Add to it half its quantity of white grapes cut in halves and seeded. Dress with a little salt, three tablespoonfuls of oil, and one tablespoonful of lemon juice. Let stand in the dressing for about an hour and serve on lettuce leaves.

Corn Salad.—One medium sized cabbage, one dozen ears corn, five red peppers, one quart vinegar, three tablespoonfuls of ground mustard, one tablespoonful of salt, one tablespoonful of celery seed, one cupful sugar; boil and seal.

Whitefish Salad.—Boil fish until tender; pick and set on ice to cool. Take one-half cupful vinegar, two teaspoonfuls oil, pepper and salt to taste, dash of paprika, and onion sauce. Put over fish just before serving. This is good spread on thin slices of bread for sandwiches.

THINGS WORTH KNOWING.

White pepper will be found preferable to black in seasoning chicken soup.

For cleaning down stairs a stiff, plain brush is better than a whisk broom.

A few chopped almonds added to a custard or bread pudding will greatly improve its flavor.

Rugs that curl on the edges can be made to lie flat by dampening curled edges and pressing them with hot iron.

Always buy linen handkerchiefs and towels and you can keep them a good color more easily than if cotton ones are bought.

When beating rugs it is an excellent plan to tie a handkerchief over the nose and mouth. This prevents the inhaling of the dust.

Verses 1-5. Example of generous giving in the Macedonian churches. 1. Brethren—Striking the characteristic note of the entire chapter, brotherly love.

The grace of God—The true inspiration of the liberal giving of the churches of Macedonia, namely, those in Berea, Thessalonica, and Philippi. Paul had been a personal observer of the life of the Macedonian Christians.

2. In much proof of affliction—The testing brought by persecution (Acts 17. 6; 1 Thess. 2. 14; 3. 2, 3). There were two fruits of their trials. One was joy (Acts 5. 41). The other was their poverty, so deep as to drain their resources and make liberality nearly out of the question. But joy and poverty worked together to effect a most notable example of Christian giving.

3. Twofold proof of Macedonian liberality: (1) it was conscientious—according to their power; (2) it was spontaneous—of their own accord. The remarkable thing in Macedonia was that the believers gave not only as they were able, but even went beyond their power. This Paul does not encourage or expect the Corinthians to do (verse 12).

4. Beseeching us—in regard of this grace—They eagerly sought from Paul the favor of being permitted to exercise this unusual charity, and to make common cause with other believers in the ministry of brotherly kindness (fellowship in evangelizing).

5. Not as we had hoped—He had had low expectation of them, but they had surpassed even this. Not only had they shown an unwonted generosity in gifts of money, when their extreme poverty led him to hope for only slight aid. But of all they had made an unwithholding surrender of themselves to Christ as Lord, and had placed themselves at the disposal of the apostle, as an instrument of the will of God. This primary giving over of their wills was the necessary condition of their subsequent gifts of money.

6. Inasmuch—To such an extent had the Macedonians responded to the call for aid that Paul was encouraged to urge Titus, who, apparently of Cor. 12. 18, had carried from Ephesus the former letter to the Corinthians, and who had undertaken the task of organizing the collection among them, to complete this work, which had been interrupted by the brevity of his stay at Corinth. Made a beginning and complete are sacerdotal words, referring to the initial rites and the full performance of a sacrifice, and are therefore properly used in connection with the sacrificial offering of alms. It was Titus also who bore to the Corinthians the two letters now embodied in our Second Epistle to the Corinthians. Paul seems to have had unusual confidence in the ability of Titus to deal with the trying conditions at Corinth.

7. But—Why should it be necessary for Titus to exert any great effort in this direction, when they are so highly endowed with other Christian graces? Consistency requires the grace of liberality as well. There was no better way of proving that their love for Paul was genuine.

8. I speak not by way of commanding them to give as freely as the Macedonians.

9. The highest incentive to generous giving for the poor is in the manifestation of that grace in the humiliation and self-denial of Christ Jesus our Lord (a word which magnifies the condescension of Christ, as Paul does again in Phil. 2. 5-9).

He was rich—Calling attention to the glory surrounding that form of existence which he had with the Father before his entrance into human flesh.

He became poor—Accepted the imperfections and impoverishment to which flesh is heir, especially the shame of death on a cross. What he gave up, as Paul elsewhere teaches, was, not the character and power which he had as God, but those special splendors which make up the experience of God.

For your sakes—Which ought to shape those, so deeply favored, out of all selfishness. "Christ parted with his riches and took our poverty, in order that we might part with our poverty and take his riches."

10. I give my judgment—Paul tells them what in his judgment is fitting and fair. His relation to the church was not one of overlordship, but advisory (1 Cor. 7. 6, 25).

This is expedient for you—Referring not to his advising rather than commanding, but to the matter contained in verse 7. The force of Paul's exhortation is in the fact that a year had elapsed since they had taken the first step toward a collection, and even before they had had the will to do it. But now (1) they must make up for their dilatoriness, and actually complete what was so long ago begun.

Out of your ability—According to your means.

12. Where there is the proper disposition to give something, what makes the gift acceptable to God is a due recognition of the law of proportion in giving. God does not seek a silly prodigality which overruns a man's resources.

13, 14. The true communism of brotherly love. There is no need that any should be distressed, provided all practice equality. Those who have abundance must share with those who want, not forgetting that those who enjoy bounty at Corinth may easily change places in the future with those who suffer lack at Jerusalem.

15. Quoted from Exod. 16. 18, and illustrating the principle of equality from the miraculous bestowal of the manna in the wilderness. There, whatever each man gathered, much or little, was found, upon measurement, to be only "an omer for each man." In the Christian family the same result is to be achieved, not by miracle, but by mercy.

OLD RECORD BREAKERS

The trans-Atlantic record-breakers of 25 years ago are being laid on the shelf, so to speak. The Umbria and Etruria represent the last of the single-screw vessels and were the largest and most powerfully equipped vessels of their time, but they cannot compete in economical operation with the vessels of to-day with their two, three and four propellers and those having turbine engines.

Bingoo—"Things have gone so badly with me that I have had to compel my wife to make her own dresses." Kingley—"Too bad. How does she look?" "Daggers!"

powder, a good pinch of salt, flour enough to thicken. Fill the bottom of a baking pan with apples cut in small pieces and sugared; add a little cinnamon to the apples and cover batter over them. Bake twenty minutes in a hot oven. Serve with caramel sauce.

Fig Pudding.—One cupful of chopped suet, one pound of figs, three eggs, two cupfuls of bread-crumbs, one cupful of sugar, two cupfuls of milk. Wash, pick over the figs, and chop. Chop the suet beat the eggs light without separation. Mix all the ingredients thoroughly, turn into a well greased mold, cover and boil three hours, serve hot. With wine sauce: One cupful of tart wine, half cup of butter, one cup of powdered sugar, beat butter to a cream, add sugar gradually, and when light add the wine which has been made hot, a little at a time, place the bowl in a basin of hot water and stir for two or three minutes. The sauce should be smooth and foamy.

MEATS.

Ham, Southern Style.—Boil ham until tender, using two waters, skin and place in a baking pan. Then stick in the fat two dozen whole cloves and sprinkle with brown sugar. Bake an hour. It is delicious when sliced cold.

Ham and Eggs.—Melt one tablespoonful of butter and moisten with cream and a half cupful of stale bread-crumbs. Put a layer of crumbs in a small baking dish, then a layer of minced ham, sliced eggs, and cream sauce alternately. The last layer should be crumbs. Bake on top rack of moderate oven twenty minutes.

Baked Liver.—Buy calf's liver in a whole piece and wash and place in a baking pan. Make four slits across the top with a sharp knife and place a fat piece of bacon in each. Sprinkle well with fine cracker crumbs, salt and pepper to taste. And add a little water. Bake for two hours, basting often and adding water as it boils away.

Meat and Potato Pie.—Pare and slice ten potatoes and six onions. Put them in a baking pan in layers, with a sprinkling of salt and pepper on each layer. Lay slices of salt or fresh pork over the top, cover with boiling water, and bake until done, turning the meat once in a while and sprinkling a little flour on it, so it will brown nicely, just before it is served.

Deviled Steak.—One flank steak, one large onion, two tablespoonfuls of butter, one tablespoonful of flour, one teaspoonful of salt, one-half teaspoonful of pepper, one teaspoonful mustard, three tablespoonfuls of vinegar, two cupfuls of hot water. Melt the butter in a frying pan, slice the onion and fry in the butter. Remove the onion when brown, cut the steak in pieces, dip in flour, and fry in the butter. Remove the meat from the frying pan and add to the butter the salt, vinegar, mustard, and pepper. Then add the hot water. Replace the steak in the frying pan cover closely, and let simmer until the steak is tender. Dish on a platter, pour the gravy over it, and garnish with brown potatoes.

DOUGHNUTS.

Stuffed Doughnuts.—Make doughnuts after your favorite recipe, roll thin, and cut out with small cookie cutter. Have prepared some stewed prunes of apricots drained be made to lie flat by dampening curled edges and pressing them with hot iron.

Always buy linen handkerchiefs and towels and you can keep them a good color more easily than if cotton ones are bought.

When heating rugs it is an excellent plan to tie a handkerchief over the nose and mouth. This prevents the inhaling of the dust.

Always buy an extra yard of stair carpet. It can then be shifted up or down a little every time it is taken up, so that it wears evenly.

When using cornstarch or arrowroot for thickening, always wet it well with cold milk or water before stirring it into the hot liquid.

Do not forget that matting must never be washed with soapy water. A strong solution of salt water cleans matting and makes it look like new.

Half a saucer of chloride of zinc moistened with an equal mixture of vinegar and water—a few drops at a time only will purify a sick-room in a few minutes.

Protect dining room table from hot dishes by placing an asbestos mat—the ordinary tin rimmed ones used in the kitchen, under a dolly, using one under each hot dish.

Take cornmeal, saturate thoroughly with gasoline, sprinkle quite heavily over carpet, and scrub with a broom. It will remove all dirt and dust, making the carpet look like new.

Have plenty of dish towels and a line or two on which to dry them. Have several sets of these cloths, two for china, two for glassware and three for the tin and crockery ware.

Always keep the pieces of wall paper after papering a room. Roll the pieces together and keep in a paper box. If the paper gets faded or torn it can be replaced with new.

MANY BRIDAL CUSTOMS

WHERE THE BRIDEGROOM ALONE IS KISSED.

How the Marriage Ceremony is Conducted in Many Lands.

The Hungarians are a practical people, but poetry plays an important part in their wedding ceremonies. The best man appears at the bride's home to notify her that the bridegroom is waiting. He makes the announcement in rhyme, telling of the impatience of the waiting lover and predicting that prosperity will result from the union. Both bride and bridegroom have as chief escort to the church a married man and woman, who are supposed to counsel them on the way.

Following the ceremony the dinner is served by the ushers. The head usher on entering the dining-room with the first dish repeats a verse appropriate to the occasion, the authorship of which is supposed to be his own.

THE DINNER IS ELABORATE. served in six, seven, or eight courses, with toasts between courses, always in rhyme. It is not unusual for two and three days dancing to follow.

At whatever hour married, the Polish bride must not take off her veil until midnight. At that time the two bridesmaids remove the veil and replace it with a silk cap decorated with ribbons.

It is seldom that the house of an average Polish family is large enough to accommodate the guests, so, after the ceremony at the church the entire party adjourns to a big public hall.

Here each man dances once around the room with the bride, ending at a table, where there is a plate or basket. At the conclusion it is expected of the man thus honored to drop money into the basket.

In some parts of Russia announcing the engagements is as important as the wedding. On the day of the announcement the men friends of the bridegroom drive to the home of the bride, carrying some thirst-quencher. The evening is spent in eating and drinking, and closes with a drive through the streets.

AT THE CHURCH,

on the day of the wedding, the guests walk round the altar, and on the return to the bride's home, feast on meats and pastry. There is much speech-making at a table, and about 11 o'clock the dancing begins. A collection is taken for the bride, who honors the present-givers by dancing with them. At midnight a committee of women do up the bride's hair in the fashion considered proper for married women.

In Syria the bride is escorted by her bridesmaids and her brother to the altar, where the bridegroom awaits her. After the service the bridegroom is kissed, but the bride receives only good wishes; sweet perfumes are sprayed on guests and bridal party alike, while sweetmeats are showered upon them instead of rice. During the first reception the bride may speak to no man save her husband.

Rivalling these customs in quaintness is the procession to the Joss house in China, where the bride

DOGS WITH GLASS EYES

HORSES, TOO, HAVE BEEN SUPPLIED WITH THEM.

New York Dentist Makes a Big Income by Supplying Animals With False Teeth.

If you have a pet dog and that dog has the misfortune to have one of its eyes knocked out during a canine combat, you can have the missing optic replaced by a glass one. Artificial eyes for dogs and other animals are as common as wooden legs, and, though they have to be made to order, there are several opticians in London who will procure and fit them at short notice. An eye for a dog costs from $5 to $15, says London Tit-Bits.

A dog doctor on the Continent recently stated that no fewer than two hundred dogs were fitted by him with glass eyes last year.

Several lions and tigers have been supplied with glass eyes during recent years, and it will be remembered that when Messrs. Bostock's menagerie was at the Earl's Court Exhibition last year a full-grown lion that lost an eye during a fight was supplied with an artificial optic.

HORSES WITH GLASS EYES.

Many valuable horses have been supplied with glass eyes, and only recently an American race-horse had one "made to measure." At first it did not appreciate the false eye, and tried to knock it out by rubbing its head against the wall of its stall. It now rests contented, however, and is perhaps the only thoroughbred adorned with a glass eye.

Of all animals horses seem most prone to tooth troubles, and the horse dentist is now quite common in Great Britain and America. A dentist in New York makes an income of over $10,000 a year by fitting horses, dogs, and cats with false teeth.

A little while ago a society lady in London had her valuable pug-dog, which had gained many prizes at shows, fitted with a full set of artificial teeth at a cost of $125.

One of the elephants at the Paris Zoo had an aching molar, which was driving it to despair and giving it a temper that was growing dangerous. The medical officer at the Zoo decided to remove the offending tooth, but, finding this a more difficult task than he bargained for, made up his mind to stop it. The operation was entirely satisfactory, and the big beast remained perfectly still during the hammering and stopping. The filling consisted of a porcelain composition.

SAVING A SHARK.

A shark in the New York Zoo was frightened one day by a lady visitor bringing an umbrella into the aquarium, and poking it in order to make it frisky. The shark jumped out of its tank and struck the screen that surrounded it with such terrific force that it badly dislocated its jaw. The doctor was called in, and he found that the man-eater would have to be removed from the tank in order to be properly attended to. Pulleys were fixed above the tank, and the shark was gently raised from the water they do not ask that any injustice should be done to the insurance interests, they feel very strongly that there is no justification for a restriction of the present conditions, nor the imposition of a protective insurance tax.

It is the aim of the Association to reduce the cost of handling farm and dairy produce to the very lowest possible figure and so procure the greatest benefit to the farmer. Apart from those large concerns who have been compelled to seek outside insurance solely on account of the inability of the registered Companies to give them a sufficient amount of insurance, others have been compelled to seek outside insurance on account of excessive rates, or the stringent conditions inserted in the policies by the local Companies.

There is no question but that at the present time the majority of the insurers who effect their insurance with registered Companies, are protected against excessive rates by the certain knowledge that the owner will have recourse to outside insurance if necessity arises. Any alteration in the existing insurance law, which would restrict the obtaining of fire insurance outside of Canada, would not only immediately re-act on the dairying and farming interests by reason of the increased cost of insurance to the large produce firms who at the present time insure outside of the country, but it would also affect those houses which at present insure with registered Companies, in that it is only natural that the rates and conditions would shortly become more onerous if competition were cut off.

I enclose herewith a copy of the resolution which has been passed by this Association and forwarded to the Minister of Agriculture, and I am to suggest that you call a meeting of your Board, have the resolution approved, and forward same to the Minister of Agriculture, with as little delay as possible. I know that this is somewhat late in the season and that it may be difficult for you to get the members together, but the matter is of sufficient importance to warrant your making a special effort to get a sufficient number of members together to form a quorum to give you authority to take action.

The matter has been fully discussed by our Association and by various members who have devoted a considerable amount of time to the question, and if there is any further information which I can give you, I shall be only too happy to do so.

I am, Dear Sir,

Yours truly,
J. STANLEY COOK,
Secretary.

RESOLUTION.

Whereas certain sections of the Bill called "An Act respecting Insurance" that is to be introduced at the coming session of Parliament, will have the effect of increasing the cost of fire insurance to every user thereof;

Whereas any increase in the rates of insurance on farm and dairy produce will have an injurious effect, and therefore become burdensome to the farming and produce industries of Canada;

Whereas the general fire insurance companies located in Canada are asking for legislation which will tend to confine to or give control of all fire insurance in the Do-

SOME AERIAL PROBLEMS

LITTLE THINGS WHICH HINDER PROGRESS.

Flying Through the Air is Still a Very Dangerous Pastime.

Already man can fly—with difficulty—and enterprising manufacturers are now offering to build aeroplanes for anyone who cares to risk his neck in one. You can buy a machine of the Wright or Farman type, guaranteed to fly a minimum of ten miles at a trial, for $7,000—the price of a high-powered motor-car.

But how long will it be before aeroplanes become as universal as motor-cars? Not until some genius comes along and solves one of two problems which are now hampering progress. Some of them are quite little things, and many of them seem on the point of being solved, but at present they make all the difference between real success and comparative failure.

THE GREASE TEST PROBLEM

Of all is the invention of some means of automatically balancing a flying-machine when it meets a cross current of air, for there are far more adverse currents in the skies than are met with in the sea.

The difficulties of the man on the aeroplane may be realized by comparing them with those of a bicyclist. The latter has only two forms of equilibrium to study—that of the right and that of the left. But the man in the flying-machine has besides this to allow for a plunging movement forward and a tilting movement behind.

Nor is this all, for besides these four cardinal points, the machine may take a plunge or suddenly move up at any angle, and all these things have to be watched for, whilst also handling the motor and the steering apparatus, for the aeroplane, as at present constructed, can only carry one man. For the solution of this problem inventors are now looking for some subtle adaptation of the "gyroscope."

The "gyroscope," the invention of Mr. Brennan, the man who invented the torpedo of that name, was only perfected about two years ago. By its means trains can run on a single line and maintain their balance, and ships can be prevented from rolling at sea. It is not too much to hope that it will soon enable aeroplanes to brave the currents of the air without mishap.

ANOTHER THING

which would be useful would be an aerial compass to show automatically on a dial the angle at which the aeroplane is travelling, so that the man on board can adjust his "planes" accordingly.

A minor problem which is at present troubling the experts is the question of propellers. Most imaginative pictures of the airships of the future present them careering about with screws and rudders like a ship, but many engineers doubt whether the screw will not have to give place to something more specially adapted for locomotion in the air, for it must be remembered that the properties of air differ widely from those of water. In a stream running at fifty to sixty miles an awaits her. After the service the bridegroom is kissed, but the bride receives only good wishes; sweet perfumes are sprayed on guests and bridal party alike, while sweetmeats are showered upon them instead of rice. During the first reception the bride may speak to no man save her husband.

Rivalling these customs in quaintness is the procession to the Joss house in China, where the little Chinese bride kneels, not to the priest, but to the stolid young Chinaman, who accepts her with great condescension as his mate.

JEWS ABSTAIN FROM FOOD

The Jewish day ends at sunset. At sunset, then, on the day before the wedding, the bridal couple begin to fast, and they must not eat until the conclusion of the ceremony, twenty-four hours later.

This abstinence from food is to prepare their minds for serious meditation concerning the step they are about to take. They are not allowed to see each other until immediately before the ceremony.

The friends and relatives of the bridegroom father at his home and escort him to the home of the bride, who, dressed and veiled in white and decked with flowers, greets him with the briefest of nods, and the combined parties form and march to the synagogue. Each guest carries a candle to light the way. They reach, near the synagogue, the "chupa," or canopy of canvas, where the rabbi is waiting. The music begins.

After prayers have been said and vows taken the bridegroom slips a ring on the bride's finger, saying: "Thou art devoted to me, in accordance with the law of Moses and Israel." The rabbi fills a cup with wine, of which the bride tastes, then the bridegroom. This concludes the ceremony.

GERMAN EMIGRATION WANING

Character as Well as Number Has Changed.

There is rejoicing in Germany over the fact that according to recent statistics less than 20,000 emigrants left the country last year. In the '90s the number of emigrants to the United States alone was over rather than under a quarter of a million.

The rejoicing is well founded, since it is evident that Germany is now so strong economically that she can not only support the annual growth of population, but also give employment to the thousands and tens of thousands she formerly sent abroad. The character of the emigration, as well as its numerical amount, has changed, as the statistics make plain.

Time was when the word emigrant was associated with notions of poverty and wretchedness. Recent investigations in one parish of Berlin show that of 1,470 persons who emigrated during the quarter ended last September only one-third could be called poor, while the other two-thirds were some of them well provided with means and not a few even rich. A score had more than $2,000 each, another score had double that amount, a dozen over $6,000, ten over $10,555, four over $12,000 and six over $20,000.

It's only a matter of time until people who want some other kind of weather will get it—only to be dissatisfied again.

aquarium, and poking its finger to make it frisky. The shark jumped out of its tank and struck the screen that surrounded it with such terrific force that it badly dislocated its jaw. The doctor was called in, and he found that the man-eater would have to be removed from the tank in order to be properly attended to. Pulleys were fixed above the tank, and the shark was gently raised from the water and then lowered on to a trolley. The trolley was wheeled into the Zoo's hospital and the shark lifted on to the operating table, where the doctor set its jaw and bound it with linen bandages.

When the shark was taken back to the aquarium it was found that the pulleys, which had acted so admirably for lifting it from the tank, would not allow it being put back again. The shark could not live much longer in the open air, and the doctor was afraid that his patient would depart this life. At last, however, he thought of an idea and had it carried out. The shark's tank was situated underground, and the doctor ordered it to be made as water-tight as possible and then filled several feet deep with water, and, finally, suitable tackle was procured for getting the shark back into its old home.

PROPOSED INSURANCE BILL.

Opinion of the Montreal Produce Merchants' Association.

All readers of this paper will be interested in the following letter, sent out by the Montreal Produce Merchants' Association, and the resolution adopted by them in connection with certain sections of the new Insurance Bill, now before the Government at Ottawa.

We have no comment to make on the statements in this letter, which was sent out by the Montreal Board of Trade to the Butter and Cheese Boards throughout the country, and to all others whom they thought it would interest. It is published, however, because it is undoubtedly of interest to members of every rural community in the country:

Dear Sir,—Probably, you are aware that at the last session of Parliament, clauses were inserted in the Insurance Bill to prevent the placing of any insurance with others than Companies licensed in Canada; in other words, to prevent the owner of property from seeking outside insurance, no matter how excessive the rates, or unfavorable the conditions, offered by local Companies.

The Bill was referred to the Banking and Commercial Committee of the House of Commons, the insurance interests were well organized and well represented; the public for the most part was unaware that any such clauses were being introduced, and for this reason there was no properly organized opposition. The result was that a compromise was arrived at, and a tax of 15 per cent. was placed on the premiums paid for all insurance placed with Companies not registered in Canada. The Bill did not pass the Senate, and so did not become law at last session, but it is understood that it will be re-introduced in the Senate on the re-assembling of Parliament with even more stringent conditions embodied in it.

The members of our Association feel that the original object of the government legislation was the protection of the public, and whilst

Whereas any increase in the rates of insurance on farm and dairy produce will have an injurious effect, and therefore become burdensome to the farming and produce industries of Canada;

Whereas the general fire insurance companies located in Canada are asking for legislation which will tend to confine to or give control of all fire insurance in the Dominion to their own companies to the detriment of all the insured throughout Canada;

Whereas the Fire Insurance Companies, known as the Regular or Tariff Companies, have an organization known as the "Canadian Fire Underwriters' Association," which Association fixes the rates of insurance on any or all property, the members of which Association control about 88 per cent of the total insurance reported to the Dominion Government, and all agree to maintain uniform rates and conditions;

Whereas the original object of Government regulation was for the protection of the public and not for the benefit of the insurance companies;

Whereas it has frequently been found impossible to obtain all the insurance required from registered companies, which companies frequently limit or refuse the acceptance of risks which do not suit them;

Whereas it is not proposed to tax registered insurance companies for re-insuring a portion of their risks with unregistered companies, the insured also should have the privilege of placing insurance with such unregistered companies without having to pay a tax for so doing;

Whereas for many years past eventual recourse to Underwriters at Lloyd's, London, or other unregistered concerns, has been the owners' chief safeguard against the excessive rates of a virtual combine, and the only means of placing all the insurance required;

Therefore Resolved that this Association places itself on record as strongly opposed to any alteration in the insurance laws that will in any way restrict the freedom of our members in securing insurance to the fullest extent of their requirements, or that will deprive the assured of the right of placing such insurance with strong financial companies operating outside of Canada; and

Further, Resolved that a copy of this resolution be sent to the Minister of Agriculture, asking for and claiming his special interest in the Bill, on behalf of the dairying and produce industries of Canada, which we realize will be so vitally and adversely affected if the proposed legislation be enacted.

question of propellers. In a stream running at fifty to sixty miles an hour a screw would be useless.

Another danger which has been pointed out by Mr. Farman, lies in the propeller blades becoming detached, for these blades turn at the tremendous rate of 1,400 revolutions a minute. He says: "Quite recently one of my blades, six feet in length, of aluminum, snapped while moving at full speed. Happily it happened to snap off in a downward direction, so no harm was done. The blade burying itself three feet deep in the ground, thus showing the tremendous force of its projection."

"Supposing, however, the blade had snapped off in an upward direction? What would have happened? One of my wings would have been and I should have come heavily to the ground. If the blade broke off horizontally instead of vertically it would travel like a cannon shot for a short distance, and inevitably kill any living being on its trajectory."

Considering that there are men still living who sneered at trains, and that it is quite a few years ago since the Hon. C. S. Rolls made a trip on one of the first motor-cars in Britain, travelling from Victoria Station, only to be stopped by the police because he had not a man with a red flag in front, it is surely not too much to hope that these little problems will be speedily solved.—Pearson's Weekly.

OTTAWA NEWS.

Parliament had no sooner assembled than the Opposition led by Mr. R. L. Borden, invited members of the House to hear an attack upon the Government, particularly the justice department, having reference to the non-appointment of judges to form an Appellate Court in British Columbia.

Very Weak Case.

The material supplied by Mr. Borden was unconvincing; inaccurate as to details, and amounted to nothing more than an undigested mass of rumor. The tirade against the Government was so evidently for the purpose of assisting the British Columbia Conservatives in the local struggle in which they are now engaged, that the weakness of Mr. Borden's case may be explained upon that ground.

This is Mr. Borden's side of the case as presented to the House, which cannot be regarded by any reasonable man otherwise than as a warped and misleading view of the facts.

How Mr. Borden Put Case.

Mr. Borden's grievance was, that an appellate court had been established by the British Columbia legislature, and the Dominion authorities, for unworthy motives, had neglected and delayed to appoint the judges thereto, therefore, the public service had suffered.

In support of his contention Mr. Borden commenced by stating that "the Legislature of British Columbia in 1907, passed an act constituting a court of appeal for that province." It was however, provided that the said act should not come into force until a day to be fixed by the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council. He further stated this act was followed by an act of the Parliament of Canada passed in 1908, providing for the salaries of the proposed appellate judges.

Some Strange Rumours.

Mr. Borden further stated that he was informed that the Dominion Government received a communication in May, 1909, to the effect that the British Columbian act of 1907 would be brought into effect by proclamation of the Lieutenant-Governor of British Columbia in Council on the first day of September, 1909.

"The act," said Mr. Borden, "was brought into effect by proclamation of the Government of British Columbia on the 1st September, 1909, and he demanded of the Government to know why there had been up to the present time no appointments to the positions of appellate judges. Mr. Borden said he would like to ask the Government why there had been this extraordinary delay after receiving, as he was informed, full notice and information as far as the month of May, six months ago, that the act would be brought into force on the 1st of September, 1909.

Some More Rumours.

After relating the course of events narrated above, Mr. Borden concluded by saying there had been rumours to ernment there was a delay of 2 years and six months, not accounted for.

Why Did They Delay?

It is not unreasonable to assume that the British Columbia Government delayed bringing the act of 1907 into force until after the result of the elections of 1908 was known, for had the Conservatives then been successful in the Dominion they would have had the opportunity of appointing these judges.

This was the first attempt of the session to discredit the Government of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, and it met with conspicuous failure.

Debate on Address.

The debate on the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne was ably moved and seconded by Mr. M. A. Ecorement, of Berthier, Que., and Mr. G. W. Kyte, Richmond, N. S. respectively.

Sir Wilfrid's Great Speech.

The speech of Sir Wilfrid Laurier on this occasion far surpassed his previous efforts in nobility of thought, patriotic fervor, and eloquence. After disposing of the sentiments attributed to Sir Charles Rivers Wilson, late president of the Grand Trunk Railway, and showing they were not justified, and in fact falsified by the event, the prime minister, amid cheers, announced that the Grand Trunk Pacific had been completed and opened for traffic from the wheat fields to Lake Superior.

With regard to the Waterways Treaty, the Premier said every point had been settled but one, and when that was decided the papers would be submitted to Parliament.

Borden Lacked Courage.

Sir Wilfrid then twitted Mr. Borden for not discussing the question of naval defence, which was mentioned in the Speech from the Throne. He referred to the unanimous passing of the resolution by the House last March, and that the subject matter of it had since been singled out for attack by members of the Conservative party. Sir Wilfrid was particularly severe with Mr. Monk, who had voted for the resolution last March, and now, like Lucifer, said he, "would not serve," and like Achilles, when he resented the authority of Agamemnon, had withdrawn, and was sulking under his tent.

Very Severe With Monk.

Sir Wilfrid was particularly severe with Mr. Monk for raising up prejudice in Quebec against Imperial unity. He reminded Mr. Monk that while he had duties as Canadians, we likewise had duties as British subjects. "If," said Sir Wilfrid, "we have rights, privileges and responsibilities as Canadians, we have also rights, privileges and responsibilities as British citizens."

British Flag the Talisman.

With dramatic effect Sir Wilfrid Laurier referred to a letter received from a friend at Rome, at the time an infuriated mob, swearing vengeance, yelling and hurling threats at convents and religious communities of all descriptions, in consequence of the execution of Professor Ferrer in Barcelona. There is in Rome a Canadian college, built by the priests of the Society of St. Sulpice, Montreal, and maintained by them for the education of Roman Catholic students in theology. Sir Wilfrid's friend asked the reverend Father Superior of the college if he was apprehensive of danger. The reply was:—

"No. I will hoist the British flag if we are attacked. The British flag our talisman here."

Interesting Historic Reference.

Sir Wilfrid reminded the House that 1900 years ago Saul of Tarsus saved himself at Rome from the violence of

The Good Dinner.
The successful housekeeper was planning a dinner for a few of her husband's friends.

"I must have apple pie and cheese
for dessert," she remarked without a flicker of indecision.

"But I should think you would want something more dainty this time of year," suggested the woman who always worried herself sick over a company dinner, "an ice or a frozen pudding."

"Oh, but apple pie is my husband's favorite dish!" When he has company
I always serve what he likes best; then he thinks his guests have had such a good dinner, and everybody is happy.
At least my husband and I are happy,
and if the guests aren't no one is the wiser!"—New York Press.

Bible Eating.
I am told by a lady resident that in the Hampshire parish in which I am writing there is living at the present time a good woman who once ate a New Testament, day by day, and leaf
by leaf, between two slices of bread and butter, as a remedy for fits. This was treating the Bible as a fetish with a vengeance.—London Notes and Quer-ries.

Colored Diamonds.
There are diamonds of all hues
from red to blue and black, as well as the flashing colorless stones. At a dark brown. Blue diamonds come from Indian mines, whilst the curious black and red stones come chiefly from the Cape.

Deafness Cannot be Cured
by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed
you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever: nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for

Some More Humours.
After relating the course of events
narrated above, Mr. Borden concluded by saying there had been rumors to the effect that certain gentlemen who are taking an active part in provincial politics at present, have had some information or understanding that their claims to positions upon the bench of that court would be very favorably considered by the Federal Government
in a certain contingency.

The above is a fair synopsis of Mr.
Borden's contention. What are the facts? What did Hon. Mr. Aylesworth, Minister of Justice, say in reply? The following is an equally fair synopsis of the reply of the Minister of Justice.

The Plain Facts in Case.
After expressing his opinion of the impropriety and undesirability of making any matter as to the constitution of the Courts or the appointments to judicial offices matters to be bandied about between one political party and another in this country, Mr. Aylesworth accentuated the following points.

Wanted Two-and-a-Half Years.
First—that the legislation under which the courts of appeal of British Columbia was established is now two years and six months old. The act passed the legislature of British Columbia in April, 1907, and was assented to on 25 April, 1907. Mr. Borden said in 1907.

In the session of 1908 the Dominion parliament passed legislation providing for the salaries of the judges of the new court.

At this time the proclamation had not been issued by the lieutenant-governor of British Columbia, bringing into force the B. C. act of 1907.

Examine These Dates.
This is how the matter stands with regard to dates.

The court was constituted by the legislature of British Columbia on 25th April, 1907. The statute, however, was not made effective or brought into force by proclamation as provided in the act.

In July, 1908, the Dominion act providing for salaries was assented to.
British Columbia proclamation bringing into force the act of 25th April, 1907, not yet made.

No intimation of any kind whatever was received by any member of the Dominion Government Government
last May to the effect that the British Columbia proclamation would be made on 1st September, 1909, as intimated
by Mr. Borden.

In April or May, 1909, the attorney-general of British Columbia personally notified Mr. Aylesworth that the act of 1907 would be brought into force
at once, and this gentleman left Mr.
Aylesworth with the assurance that he was then going to the telegraph office, and the act would be in force within a few hours.

The act of 1907 was not brought into force until 1st September, 1909 by proclamation.

Therefore the delay, if any, extends from 1st September to 13th November, 1907, about six weeks.

Delay Just Six Weeks.
Mr. Borden blamed the Dominion Government for a delay of six weeks
in appointing judges to form a court of appeal, but he does not blame the Conservative Government of British Columbia for the delay between 25th
April, 1907, and 1st September, 1909, in bringing the act into force. In the case of the minister of justice there was a delay of six weeks, accounted for upon reasonable grounds, and in the case of the British Columbia government it was appreciable of longer.

The reply was:—
"No. I will hoist the British flag
if we are attacked. The British flag
our talisman here."

Interesting Historic Reference.
Sir Wilfrid reminded the House that 1900 years ago Saul of Tarsus saved himself at Rome from the violence of the mob by claiming his Roman citizenship, and in these days a Christian gentleman in the same place is immune from the attacks of a mob by proclaiming his rights as a British subject.

Sir Wilfrid's eloquent peroration is found below:—

Eloquent Peroration.
"Wherever there are rights, wherever there are privileges, there are likewise duties and responsibilities:
and so long as we enjoy the rights
and privileges of British citizenship,
so long we must, we shall, we will assume and accept all the responsibilities that appertain to that position.
I say we. What do I mean? I mean Canadians of all origins, of all races,
of all nationalities. I mean Canadians from the east and from the west. I mean Canadians above all—above
all—the Province of Quebec, who claim the honor of being descended from a race which has always stood foremost in chivalry, in honour and in idealism."

Canadian Navy Scheme.
The plans for the proposed Canadian navy have been laid on the table of the House. Two proposals are presented for the consideration of Parliament.

Two Proposals.
The initial cost of the first is $11,690,000, and the total upkeep for a

TORTURED BY PILES.

Could not Rest! Could not Work!
Could not Play!

How Zam-Buk Brought Relief.

Mr. Julius Glacier, of Danbigh, Ont., says:—"I was so tortured by piles
that I could not get ease whether lying down, sitting or standing. The ailment robbed me of strength, of appetite, and of all desire to live! I suffered so long and so acutely that I came to think there was no ease for me, but one day I found out that I was wrong!"

"I was told that Zam-Buk cured piles, and that this balm was altogether different to ordinary ointments,
scores of which I had proved useless for so bad a case as mine was. I got a supply of Zam-Buk, and began to use it regularly."

"Without going into unnecessary
details in a few weeks I found myself cured. I owe my cure to Zam-Buk entirely, and I trust my experience will be the means of leading other sufferers to try this great herbal balm."

Nothing need be added to this plain,
powerful testimony save one question
—if you suffer like Mr. Glacier did,
why not get relief from the same source as he did?

Zam-Buk—as he truly says—is "something different" to the ordinary ointments and salves. It is a powerful combination of healing and soothing herbal essences. No mineral astringents or poisons; no impure animal fats.

It is a proved cure for inflamed
areas (as in piles) erysipelas, eczema,
ulcers, sores, abscesses, cold cracks,
chapped hands, burns, cuts, scalp sores, and all skin injuries and diseases. It is the most suitable balm for children's rashes. All druggists and stores at 50c box or post-free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price

"Pending the completion of the new cruisers, which should be commenced
as early as possible, the British Admiralty would loan the Dominion two cruisers of the "Apollo" class, so that the training of the new naval personnel might be proceeded with at once.
These vessels would be fitted out and maintained at the expense of Canada, and the officers and men provided by volunteers from the Royal Navy, but paid by the Canadian Government.
These men would be lent until they could be replaced from time to time
by qualified Canadian officers and men. The British Admiralty would be willing also to lend certain officers for organizing duties and for the instruction of seamen, stokers, etc.

Would Receive Canadian Cadets.
Arrangements would be made to receive Canadian cadets at Osborne and Dartmouth.

Suggestion for Drydocks.

The Admiralty suggested that any consideration of providing docking facilities should include building them
of sufficient size to accommodate the largest ships whether for war or commerce as apart from the mercantile advantage such docks might be used in case of emergency by armoured cruisers and battleships. The suggestion is made that docks of this character might be placed on the Pacific, the Atlantic and the River St.
Lawrence.

The papers brought down point out that to encourage a good class of men
to make the naval service their profession for life, it has been found advisable in Great Britain to provide for pensions.

Disposal of Navy.

In case proposal number one was accepted, the suggestion is that the "Boadicea" and Destroyers be placed on the Atlantic side, and the "Bristol" cruisers divided between the Atlantic and Pacific Ocean.

In case proposal number two were accepted, the suggestion is that two "Bristol" cruisers be placed on the Pacific and one "Bristol" cruiser and four destroyers on the Atlantic coast.

Upon Admiralty Lines.

It was suggested at the conference in London that any necessary acts of Parliament, which would have to be passed, should be considered so as to place the discipline and general regulations of the naval forces as much on admiralty lines as possible, having due consideration to local requirements. This legislation should also provide for the formation of a naval reserve and naval volunteer force.

There was a discussion on the training of officers and men, organization discipline, etc., and a general agreement was arrived at that the wishes of the Canadian Government would be met as far as possible.

Results of Great Deliberation.

The proposals outlined above are the results of the deliberation of the conference of representatives of the self-governing Dominions on the naval and military defence of the Empire
held in London last summer.

We are British Citizens.

The Canadian House of Commons
last March unanimously passed resolutions adopting the principle of the construction of a Canadian navy. A meeting was afterwards held in London at which representatives of the self-governing colonies were present and in the case of Canada, the two proposals given above were prepared to be submitted to the Canadian Parliament. The proposals have the endorsement of the Imperial Government, and is now for the Parliament of Canada to take practical measures to inaugurate a Canadian navy and show that Canadians are in spirit and in fact British citizens.

PCTT'S GIFT.

Hidden In a Basket of Flowers She Found a Tiny Dog.

During one of the most admirable performances that Donizetti's opera
ever received in America an incident occurred that lent momentous interest to Patti's appearance.

Mme. Diaz, wife of the President of Mexico, had heard of the death of Patti's pet dog Ricci, and had sent her another, which was presented to the diva in a novel way. The tiny animal was buried in a basket of roses, but an usher discovered it,
and the manager refused permission.

At the next act, however, Mr. Abbey relented and allowed the usher to convey the gift. The basket in which the dog was hidden was a triumph of floral art, and Mme. Patti, attracted by the beauty of its design
and the gorgeous bloom of its roses, chose to carry it personally off the stage.

As she lifted the basket and kissed its flowers the little dog, which was badly frightened by the experience
it had had, gave a feeble cry. The diva started, looked curiously into the mass of flowers, gave a purely feminine scream of delight and, running down to the footlights, whispered gleefully to the audience, "I declare if it isn't a lovely little dog!"

No one who has not been at a Patti performance can realize the enthusiastic volume of applause that greeted this announcement. Men jumped up on the chairs and yelled "Brava, brava, Patti!" and women waved their fans and handkerchiefs and cried hysterically. Suddenly Patti dived into the basket and kissed the dog, whereat a fresh storm of cheers rang through the house. Then she

A BATTLE ROYAL.

Moose Fight For the Championship of the Wilderness.

An hour, it seemed, the two moose had battled, neither appearing to gain a point of advantage.
Their sides showed red gashes from
the savage ripping of horn points.
Their eyes were reddened, and there was crimson in the flecks of froth that flew from their nostrils. The bog was churned into a black slough of muck beneath them. The first streaks of dawn were showing when—was it fate, luck or the better strategy of the newcomer?—the advantage of position was taken from Bilhorn's stand.

Now the newcomer could stand off
a locomotive. He could even recover
a measure of his wind, while his opponent must continue to weaken. And the effect soon told. Suddenly he seemed to gather himself together and bring all his great force of bone and muscle into one grand, herculean effort, and Bilhorn's bull slipped backward. His adversary was actually forcing bog and all back with him,
the spongy mass, soughing up behind his helpless haunches. This was a dangerous turn in the fray. He realized it and struggled to gain a stay somewhere, anywhere, but there was nothing to hold to. Back, back, he settled on his haunches until he was driven squarely over on his broad side, hopelessly out of action, terribly
at the mercy of his foe, who horned him brutally again and again until sheer lack of breath forced him to draw back for an instant.

Up from the reddened slough the vanquished beast staggered, a fearful spectacle. Not an instant did he falter, but, with his dark life-blood pouring from his sides, drove straight at his enemy again. The rest is soon told. As the dying stag came on blindly he stumbled and fell squarely
on the lowered antlers of his conqueror. Viciously the standing bull strove to extricate his horns from beneath the heavy body of his victim, but he was pinned fast.

Then came the spectacular finish of this battle, worthy of the most exacting Roman arena. Slowly but surely the victor began to lift the huge form of the fallen stag until with one mighty upward sweep he hurled it fairly over his back, where it struck on the rock with a sickening thud and fell at its base, a quivering, shapeless mass of mangled flesh and bone. The victor wheeled and gazed for a moment at the quiet form.

To the trembling, panting figure of the man on the rock he paid no heed.
Satisfied that his adversary would trouble him no more he turned and with heavy swinging strides went back into the swamp from which he had come. Thus fell the king of the Allagash, not from any cunning or craft of puny man, but in a battle
royal, worthy of the Spartan kings, waged with a foe deserving of his blade, in defense of his crown and realm.

Working Round to It.

A north country collier, anxious to pop the question to a girl whom he honestly admired, but unable to sum up courage to ask her the question outright, adopted a method of sounding her as to her idea of matrimony.

"Jenny, ma' lass," he said nervously,
"Ah've insured ma life."

"Has ta, lad?" said Jenny indifferently.

"Ah, and Ah'm silly for doing so."

"How's that?"

"Why, supposin' Ah get killed 't pit, where dost t' think t' money'll go?"

"Why to thy feyther, for sure."

"True enuf. An' it isn't fair. It ought to be paid to ma wife."

"To thy wife! Why, tha hasn't got one!"

"That's just it," said Bill. "But thou's a nice lass, Jenny, and I want to be to thy money."

"Why couldn't tha say so at first?"
cried Jenny joyfully. Then the couple embraced.

is ejected.) Now open the cupboard
and tell my sister, who is listening, politely, but firmly, to depart. (The sister departs.)

Young Smith—(wiping his brow)—
Now, darling, the coast is clear. Will

Nellie—No! (Collapse of Smith.)

St. Catherine's Great Chimes.

St. Catherine's Cathedral in Danzig, Germany, boasts of the largest belfry and the most elaborate set of chimes in the world. The total weight of the thirty-seven bells of this great belfry is 35,000 pounds, the largest one alone weighing 5,400 pounds. The play of the chimes is over three octaves, and it is manipulated by means of a keyboard and pedals. It is said to be possible to play any tune on these bells, and an attachment is also provided by which music is produced automatically.

Her Jewels.

"Theo," and her eyes sought the last embers of the dying fire, "you are not as kind as a husband should be. You never give me any jewels."

"Jewels!" And his voice seemed to come from his heart. "You ask for jewels? All his voice seemed

Then for the first time for days she

"You were lucky," retorted the young

Whereupon she said in dumb but eloquent pantomime, "I can't get him out." Finally, as the applause showed no signs of abatement, she ran off the stage, gave the dog and his basket to an attendant, came tripping back and whispered, "Home, Sweet Home," to Signor Arditi, and the ballad was sung as only Patti could sing it.

There were tears in her eyes as she finished, and many a man in the auditorium choked down a sob and many a woman wept silently as the pathetic strains of the old song floated in mournful cadence through the auditorium.

Fate of the Yoy Dogs.

In connection with valuable toy dogs The Windsor Magazine has a story about the late Li Hung Chang. When the Chinese statesman was visiting London a leading light of the Stock Exchange made up his mind to send a valuable present to him. After careful consideration he decided he could not do better than send him two of the most valuable toy dogs to be had. They were selected with great care and sent to Li Hung Chang, from whom a letter of thanks was received a few days later. "Your gift is much appreciated," wrote the celebrated Chinese envoy, "but unfortunately my age and health compel me to adopt a very rigid diet. Under these circumstances I directed that the dogs be prepared for some members of my staff, who have enjoyed them very much."

A World's Record Harbor.

Recently the Prince of Wales opened the new Admiralty harbor at Dover, which has cost over £3,500,000. The new works have a length of about 2 1/2 miles, and provide a sheltered area of 610 acres, exclusive of the commercial harbor, completed some time ago, which cost about a million and a quarter, and provided 75 acres sheltered area. The total of 685 acres gives us the largest artificial harbor in the world.

The sea walls of the new harbor contain about 66,000 huge concrete blocks, averaging 35 tons each. Before the work of construction started, the contractors had to buy a granite quarry to supply the 200,000 tons of granite necessary. Besides the granite, about 2,500,000 tons of concrete have been used.

Dover's magnificent harbor is sufficiently large to accommodate twenty first-class battleships as well as numerous torpedo-boat destroyers, gunboats, etc. Dreadnoughts can be taken at all stages of the tide.

Over ten years have been occupied in the construction, and the scheme is not yet complete.

Cupid's Effective Darts.

Once upon a time Cupid called on Vulcan.

"Friend Vulcan," he said, "things have been a little slow with me of late, and I have been missing a lot of marks. I want you to make me a new lot of darts and tip each one of them with gold."

Several days afterward Mercury appeared in a great hurry before Vulcan with this note from Cupid:

Dear Vulcan—Those last darts didn't miss once. Make me 10,000 gross more gold tipped ones at once. I am doing the greatest work of my life.

"Moral.—Aim is made more effective by the judicious use of gold."

A Fatal Funeral.

An extraordinary series of fatalities occurred at Madrid. An old lady died suddenly, and when the hearse came to convey her body to the graveyard the coachman fell from the box in a fit of apoplexy and died immediately. A woman among the mourners was so upset at this that she fell dead, as though struck by lightning, and a child in her arms was dashed against the stones with such violence that its skull was fractured. Instead of one death four had to be notified to the authorities.

Cheerful.

"John, dear," said the invalid's wife, "I'll have to run away from you for an hour or so to-day. I have to get the material for a new dress that the dressmaker"—

"But," complained the patient, "do you think it is right to be thinking of dress while I am so ill?"

"Why, John, it will be all right, no matter what happens. It's a black dress."—Pearl's Weekly.

Make Each Animal Worth 25% Over Its Cost

On 2/3 of a Cent a Day

Nobody ever heard of "stock food" curing the bots or colic, making hens lay in winter, increasing the yield of milk five pounds per cow a day, or restoring run-down animals to plumpness and vigor.

When you feed "stock food" to your cow, horse, swine or poultry, you are merely feeding them what you are growing on your own farm.

Your animals do need not more feed, but something to help their bodies get all the good out of the feed you give them so they can get fat and stay fat all year round; also to prevent disease, cure disease and keep them up to the best possible condition. No "stock food" can do all these things. ROYAL PURPLE STOCK SPECIFIC can and does. It is

Not a "Stock Food" But a "Conditioner"

ROYAL PURPLE STOCK SPECIFIC contains no grain, nor farm products. It increases yield of milk from three to five pounds per cow per day before the Specific has been used two weeks. It makes the milk richer and adds flesh faster than any other preparation known. Young calves fed with ROYAL PURPLE are as large at six weeks old as they would be when fed with ordinary materials at ten weeks.

ROYAL PURPLE STOCK SPECIFIC builds up run-down animals and restores them to plumpness almost magically. Cures bots, colic, worms, skin diseases and debility permanently.

Dan McEwan, the horseman, says: "I have used ROYAL PURPLE STOCK SPECIFIC persistently in the feeding of 'The Eel,' 2022, largest winner of any pacer on Grand Circuit in 1908, and 'Henry Winters,' 2091, brother of 'Allen Winters,' winner of $36,000 in trotting stakes in 1908. These horses have never been off their feed since I commenced using Royal Purple Specific almost a year ago, and I will always have it in my stables."

Royal Purple

STOCK AND POULTRY SPECIFICS

One 50c. package of ROYAL PURPLE STOCK SPECIFIC will last one animal seventy days, which is a little over two-thirds of a cent a day. Most stock foods in fifty cent packages last but fifty days and are given three times a day. ROYAL PURPLE STOCK SPECIFIC is given but once a day, and lasts half again as long. A $1.50 pack containing four times the amount of the fifty cent package will last 280 days. ROYAL PURPLE will increase the value of your stock 25%. It is an astonishingly quick fattener, stimulating the appetite and the relish for food, assisting nature to digest and turn feed into flesh. As a hog fattener it is a leader.

It will save many times its cost in veterinary bills. ROYAL PURPLE POULTRY SPECIFIC is our other Specific for poultry, not for stock. One 50 cent package will last twenty-five hens 70 days, or a pack costing $1.50 will last twenty-five hens 280 days, which is four times more material for only three times the cost. It makes a "laying machine" out of your hens every winter and prevents fowls losing flesh at moulting time, and cures poultry diseases. Every package of ROYAL PURPLE STOCK SPECIFIC or POULTRY SPECIFIC is guaranteed.

Just use ROYAL PURPLE on one of your animals and any other preparation on another animal in the same condition; after comparing results you will say ROYAL PURPLE has them all beat to death, or else back comes your money. FREE—Ask your merchant or write us for our valuable 32-page booklet on cattle and poultry diseases, containing also cooking recipes and full particulars about ROYAL PURPLE STOCK AND POULTRY SPECIFICS.

If you cannot get Royal Purple Specifics from merchants or agents, we will supply you direct, express prepaid, on receipt of $1.50 a pack for either Poultry or Stock Specifics.

Hennequin's Infant Tablets

Save Babies' Lives. For Babies and Small Children. (Made in France.)

Dr. Hennequin's Infant Tablets saved our little girl's life. Three doctors said she could not live. The Tablets cured her.—MR. E. R. McBRIDE, Napanee, Ont.

My baby was so weak from sickness that he could hardly walk. We thought he would die. We could find nothing to help him. I was given a sample package of three Hennequin Tablets; we used them; I saw a change at once. We secured the Tablets and our baby improved every day, and is now a bright, fat, good natured boy; you could not believe he was the same child. They certainly cured my baby and saved his life. I believe them to be the best medicine ever sold for babies. Mothers if your babies are not well take my advice and try these Tablets.—MRS. JAMES RIDDELL, Harrydale, Ont.

We have hundreds of such letters. If the Tablets were not what you need we would not offer to give them away and prepay them. If your baby is not well send for trial package. Hennequin Tablets have the letter "H" stamped upon them—this is your guarantee.

Given Up To Die

No. 100 George St., Sorel, Quebec.
 "Suffered from womb disease for seven years, with dreadful pains over the front of the body, over the back and down the legs. I had indigestion and chronic constipation and the constipation was so bad that I went sometimes for ten to fifteen days without any action of the bowels. I was ill in bed for one whole year. At one time I was so low that everyone thought I was going to die, and the last Rites of the Church were administered to me. I was treated by six different doctors without any benefit.

MADAME JOSEPH LURETTE

Then I got a sample of "Fruit-a-tives," but I had no faith in them at all, and I would not have taken them only my husband begged so hard for me to try them. As soon as I began to take "Fruit-a-tives" I grew better, the bloating was relieved, the sleeplessness was cured, my stomach acted, and the bowels were moved, but above all the fearful womb pains were made easier. I have taken eighteen boxes in all and I am now perfectly well again."

Letter Perfect and Looked the Part.
 An amateur theatrical company was recently arranging for the performance of a play which contained a rich variety of characters, says London Sketch. Owing to this fact little progress was made with the cast, a few members of the company making a dead set at principal positions, while minor characters were going a-begging. One rather vacuous looking youth made himself particularly obstructive and brought down the wrath of a brother artist.

"In my opinion," exclaimed the latter, "young Jones must, in the interests of economy, take the part of Simkins the Fool."

"Why economy?" demanded Mr. Jones indignantly.

"Well, you see, my dear fellow," was the quiet reply, "you won't need any touching up."

The Sacrifice.

"A Kentucky couple," said Mrs. Simpkins, "got married a few days ago after a courtship which had lasted fifty years."

"I suppose," replied Mr. Simpkins, "the poor old man had become too feeble to hold out any longer."—Chicago Record-Herald.

A BIT OF SLANG.

Origin of "Making a Noise Like" This or That.

Captain Henry G. Lyon, U. S. A., was the innocent cause of the slang expression about "making a noise like" this or that. At Peekskill in 1906 he gave instruction to officers of the New York national guard doing duty in that tour of camp. The first day he formed the officers into a class in the big mess hall, which was open at the sides, so that all that went on inside was seen and heard by the enlisted men passing back and forth. In teaching the officers how to give the commands Captain Lyon impressed upon the class the necessity of clear enunciation and of making commands like an officer, saying "arms," not "umps," etc.

The privates' capacity for turning things to their own amusement was shown a few minutes after that first class was dismissed, for officers going through their company streets heard privates in front of a group of men shouting out, "Make a noise like an officer!" whereupon the entire "class" would roar "Umps!" A reporter sent an account to a New York paper, and from this grew expressions such as "Make a noise like a hoop and roll away," etc.

However, it is seldom one hears the word "arms" or "march," the voice finding it much easier to slur the word till it may mean anything, and as the preparatory command indicates what is to be done the command following is merely a signal for the execution of what has already been specified.—Army and Navy Journal.

LEGAL ADVICE.

The Lawyer's Duty in Giving Counsel to His Client.

In the realm of advice a lawyer may choose, between counseling his client how to uphold the rights secured to him by the justice of his cause or how to obtain benefits from the application of technicalities and the use of the weaknesses of the particular statute or precedents under consideration whereby he may attain advantages inconsistent with fair play between man and man.

Every time a lawyer encourages such an application of the law as, resulting in injustice, casts disrepute upon the law or its administration he is plainly promoting discord either in the present or the future.

Every time a lawyer counsels controversy for the establishment of a right as recognized by existing law or for the promulgation of new law beneficial to the majority of society he is exercising his true function, and the charge which he lays upon his individual client and through him upon industry and progress in the mass, if reasonable in amount, is well earned and should be cheerfully paid.

When, however, a lawyer gives the other kind of advice the expense, perhaps cheerfully borne by the client who profits personally therefrom, must be finally laid upon society as a whole, which is thereby paying for its own injury and naturally resents the charge.—Donald R. Kieberg in Atlantic.

His Neighbor.

"We are told, Tommy," said the Sunday school teacher, "that we should love our neighbor. Now, who is your neighbor, Tommy?"

But Tommy blushed, hung his head and said nothing. He didn't want to tell the little girl's name.—Chicago Tribune.

A BY-LAW

To prohibit the sale by retail of spirituous, fermented or other manufactured liquors in the Municipality of the Village of Bath.

The Municipal Council of the Village of Bath hereby enacts as follows:

1.—That the sale by retail of spirituous, fermented, or other manufactured liquors is and shall be prohibited in every tavern, inn or other house or place of public entertainment in the said municipality, and the sale thereof, except by wholesale, is and shall be prohibited in every shop or place other than a house of public entertainment in the said municipality.

2.—That the vote of the electors of the said Village of Bath will be taken on this by-law by the returning officer hereinafter named on the Third day of January, One Thousand Nine Hundred and Ten, commencing at nine o'clock in the morning and continuing until five o'clock in the afternoon at the undermentioned places:

By Returning Officer Max Robinson, Clerk of the Municipality, at the Town Hall, Bath.

3.—That on the fifteenth day of December A. D. 1909, at his office in the municipality of Bath, at the hour of one o'clock in the afternoon the reeve shall appoint in writing, signed by himself, two persons to attend at the final summing up of the votes by the clerk, and one person to attend at each polling place on behalf of the persons interested in and desirous of promoting the passing of this by-law, and a like number on behalf of the persons interested in and desirous of opposing the passing of this by-law.

4.—That the Clerk of the said Municipal Council of the Village of Bath shall attend at Town Hall, Bath, at the hour of five thirty o'clock in the afternoon on the Third day of January A. D. 1910, to sum up the number of votes given for and against this By-law.

5.—This By-law shall come into force and take effect as from the first day of May next after the final passing thereof.

Sitting on the Snakes.

"While in Paris last summer another girl and I went out to Versailles one afternoon," said a schoolteacher. "It was dusk when we reached the railway station, and, as there was no waiting room, we sat down on two crates that were out on the platform among a lot of others. We noticed that the station employees kept staring at us with a persistence that was annoying. Presently a man in a shabby uniform with a bucket on his arm approached us. He touched his cap deferentially and said in French, of course: 'Mesdames, pray do not let me disturb you, but I am forced to open the boxes on which you are seated in order to feed the boa constrictor and other serpents that are within.'

A BARNUM TRICK.

Getting His Posters Into Canada Without Paying Duty.

One of P. T. Barnum's most successful feats of bamboozlement was played upon the Canadian customs authorities. The veteran showman's tours were always planned far in advance, and one winter he made up his mind to take his great circus and menagerie through Canada during the summer after the next. This gave him about two years in which to mature his plans.

One important item of a showman's expenses consists of his advertising placards, and Mr. Barnum was always lavish with these gaudy prints. He was aware that the Canadian government imposed a high duty on this class of imports, and yet he wanted to paint Canada red, yellow, blue and green with a lavishness that no showman had ever dreamed of doing before.

He was aware that the Canadian government imposed a high duty on this class of imports, and yet he wanted to paint Canada red, yellow, blue and green with a lavishness that no showman had ever displayed in that country before.

Now, there was no printing house anywhere in Canada that could begin to turn out the kind of work that Mr. Barnum required either in size, color or finish. Nevertheless his immense posters came under the same classification as much smaller lithographs and printed colored matter did, and he knew that the Dominion custom authorities would not abate one jot of the full toll, but would rather rejoice at the opportunity to mulct the foreigner who would convey so much money out of a country.

So Barnum studied the question awhile and finally sent on at once a

Facts For Sick Women

We know of no other medicine which has been so successful in relieving the suffering of women, or secured so many genuine testimonials, as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

In almost every community you will find women who have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Almost every woman you meet has either been benefited by it, or knows some one who has.

In the Pinkham Laboratory at Lynn, Mass., are files containing over one million one hundred thousand letters from women seeking health, in which many openly state over their own signatures that they have regained their health by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has saved many women from surgical operations.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is made exclusively from roots and herbs, and is perfectly harmless.

The reason why it is so successful is because it contains ingredients which act directly upon the female organism, restoring it to healthy and normal activity.

Thousands of unsolicited and genuine testimonials such as the following prove the efficiency of this simple remedy.

Belleriver, Que.—"Without Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I would not be alive. For five months I had painful and irregular periods and inflammation of the uterus. I suffered like a martyr and thought often of death. I consulted two doctors who could do nothing for me. I went to a hospital, and the best doctors said I must submit to an operation, because I had a tumor. I went back home much discouraged. One of my cousins advised me to take your Compound, as it had cured her. I did so and soon commenced to feel better, and my appetite came back with the first bottle. Now I feel no pain and am cured. Your remedy is deserving of praise."—Mrs. Emma Chatel, Valleyfield, Belleriver, Quebec.

Women who are suffering from those distressing ills peculiar to their sex should not lose sight of these facts or doubt the ability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore their health.

A TOWN AS IF BY MAGIC.

Western Canada has recently been described by a well-known writer as "A place where people do things, and do them quickly," and probably no more apt illustration of the truth of this statement can be found than that of the building up of Melville, Saskatchewan, which is situated on the main line of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, 287 miles west of Winnipeg.
Two years ago, R. Garvin pitched his tent on the town site of Melville. Behold the town to-day! "Marvellous" exclaim the many visitors. Eight years ago a person could have travelled for two days and have never seen a house; while now the iron horse speeds merrily towards the West, and still the country is only on the threshold of future greatness.

Melville to-day is a live Western town, having a population of close upon 2,000 souls. It is well and substantially built and boasts of up-to-date public buildings; and a school which is to cost $14,000 is now nearing completion. It has well graded streets and about a mile of permanent sidewalks, which is surely a good showing for this "infant prodigy."

Another feature in the career of this
"healthy infant of the West" is that it enjoys the privilege of being the first town incorporated on Canada's new transcontinental railway, eclipsing Prince Rupert, B. C., the much boomed terminal of this great road in that respect.

Melville is also fortunate, and to an extent it owes its prosperity to the decision of the Directors of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway to make that town the largest divisional point between Winnipeg and Edmonton, and locating their shops there. To add to this very fortunate chain of circumstances, there is the fact that Melville
is situated in what is generally considered one of the best, if not the best, agricultural districts in Western Canada. Here is to be found in abundance
all that goes to make the lot of a farmer a happy one. Water is to be found in abundance, and the soil is rich beyond comparison.

Nature has done much for Melville,
and the hardy pioneers of the West and South are lending their aid to build up the coming city of the Grand Trunk Pacific, in the middle West.

DENBIGH.

For last week.

Mr. Gustav Stein has returned from his prospecting tour to New Ontario.
He has purchased a farm about fifteen miles from New Liskeard and intends to move with his family on it next spring.

Mr. Robt. Ferguson left last week for Cobalt with three loads of household and other goods. He intended to load a freight car with his effects at Renfrew.

Messrs. Albert Stein and Frank Chatson, of Brockville, who enjoyed a visit with friends and relatives here
and some sport in their native woods
during the hunting season have returned home. They had better success than last season, having got their lawful number of deer.

Mr. John Taudvin of Kingston, Game and Fishery Overseer, who spent the hunting season in this vicinity, and our Local Deputy Game Warden, Mr. H. Glaeser, made it rather unpleasant for a number of parties, who had violated the provisions of the Ontario Game and Fishery Laws and had to pay nearly $100 in penalties and costs for hunting without a license; killing deer during the close season; having venison in their possession during the close season and having partridges found in their possession.

Mr. Cyrus Kenyon has left the farm

DISTRIBUTION OF SEED GRAIN AND POTATOES.

By instruction of the Hon. Minister of Agriculture a distribution is being made this season of samples of superior sorts of grain and potatoes to Canadian farmers for the improvement of seed. The stock for distribution has been secured mainly from the Experimental Farms at Indian Head, Sask., Brandon, Man., and Ottawa,
Ont. The samples consist of oats, spring wheat, barley, peas, Indian corn (for ensilage only), and potatoes.
The quantity of oats sent is 4 lbs.,
and of wheat or barley 5 lbs., sufficient in each case to sow one-twentieth of an acre. The samples of Indian corn, peas and potatoes weigh 3 lbs. each.
A quantity of each of the following varieties has been secured for this distribution:—

Oats—Banner, Abundance, Danish
Island, Wide-Awake, White Giant, Thousand Dollar, Improved Ligowo—
all white varieties.

Wheat—Red varieties: Red Elfe
(beardless), Marquis, Stanley and Chelsea (early beardless), Preston, Huron and Pringle's Champion (early bearded).
White varieties: White Fife
(beardless), Bobs (early beardless).

Barley—Six-rowed: Mensury, Odessa, and Mansfield. Two-rowed: Invincible, Standwell and Canadian Thorpe.

Field Peas—Arthur and Golden Vine.
Indian Corn (for ensilage)—Early sorts: Angel of Midnight, Compton's Early and Longfellow. Later varieties: Selected Leaming, Early Mastodon and White Cap Yellow Dent.

Potatoes—Early varieties: Rochester Rose, and Irish Cobbler. Medium to late varieties: Gold Coin, Carman
No. 1, and Money Maker. The later varieties are, as a rule, more productive than the earlier kinds. Only one sample can be sent to each applicant,
hence if an individual receives a sample of oats he cannot also receive one of wheat, barley, peas, Indian corn or potatoes. Applications on printed cards or sheets, or lists of names from one individual, or applications for more than one sample for one household, cannot be entertained. The samples will be sent free of charge through the mail.

Applications should be addressed to the Director of Experimental Farms, Ottawa, and may be sent in any time
from the 1st of December to the 15th of February, after which the lists will be closed, so that the samples asked for may be sent out in good time for sowing. Applicants should mention the variety they prefer, with a second sort as an alternative. Applications will be filled in the order in which they are received, so long as the supply of seed lasts. Farmers are advised to apply early to avoid possible disappointment. Those applying for Indian corn or potatoes should bear in mind that the corn is not usually distributed until April, and that potatoes cannot be mailed until danger from frost
in transit is over. No postage is required on mail matter addressed to the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa.

Director of Experimental Farms.

NASAL CATARRH PRODUCES DEAFNESS

RELIEF IN PE-RU-NA.

Mr. R. J. Arless, 401 City Hall Ave., Montreal, Quebec, is an old gentleman of wide acquaintance, having served thirty-eight years in the General Postoffice of Montreal, a record which speaks for itself. Concerning his use of Peruna, see letter given below.

MR. R. J. ARLESS.

"I have been afflicted with nasal
catarrh to such a degree that it affected
my hearing.

"This was contracted some twenty years ago by being exposed to draughts
and sudden changes of temperature.

"I have been under the treatment of specialists and have used many drugs
recommended as specifics for catarrh
in the head and throat—all to no purpose.

"About three years ago I was induced
by a confrere in office to try Peruna.

"After some hesitation, as I had doubts as to results after so many failures, I gave Peruna a trial, and am happy to state that after using eight or ten bottles of Peruna I am much improved in hearing, and in breathing
through the nostrils."

Cordwood Counsel Fee.

A Barton county farmer sought advice from a Golden City attorney about suing his wife for divorce on the ground that she did not agree with him on a horse trade he had made.
The attorney advised him, and the farmer agreed to pay him for it in cordwood. A few days later the wife and one of the little children went to town with the first installment of the wood and unloaded it in the lawyer's shed—Kansas City Star.

Mr. Cyrus Kenyon has left the farm
he had rented on Pumpkin street, and moved back on his own farm near White Lake.

Mr. Andrew Kerr is also preparing to leave Denton and intends to become a settler in the adjoining County of Lyndock, in Renfrew county.

Mr. Adolph Warlick, of Saskatoon Sask., has arrived here and intends to spend the winter with his mother and step-father, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Stein;
of the Danbigh House.

Messrs. Gustav Liedke and August Behn, of Raglan, paid a visit to their friends here last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Wehland, of Hardwood Lake, favored Mr. and Mrs.
Ed Petzold with a visit last Saturday and Sunday, and called on a few of their other friends here.

A Real Consolation.

Little Molly's father can't quite see where Molly got her information. One day when her unmarried aunt was visiting at their house Molly became impressed with her aunt's solitary state.
"Haven't you any husband, Aunt Molly?" she asked. Aunt Molly's pretended grief over the fact that she was husbandless was so real to Molly that she undertook the task of consolation.
"Never mind, dear Aunt Molly, husbands scold."—Delineator.

A Dog Story.

We brought from Scotland a collie about six months old. He was allowed to be with us at the breakfast table, but never to be fed in the dining room. This rule was enforced by my daughter. I was the only member of the family who ever broke over the rule. And often when I offered him a tempting bone he would glance across the table, and if he caught the forbidding eye he would resist the temptation. But one morning she left the table abruptly. Rab followed her into the hall and watched her till she had closed the door of her study.
Then he scampered back, nudged my elbow, as if to say, "Now is our time."
He seized the bone and was soon
crunching it with the greatest satisfaction.—London Spectator.

Illustrating a Definition.

In proving a match to the browbeat-ing lawyer the woman witness is probably in the majority. At a recent case in court a woman witness was giving very damaging evidence against the prisoner, and the attorney for the defense, nettled at her manner, decided to embarrass her if he could.

"In giving your testimony, madam, I observe that you are constantly using the word 'ifony.' May I ask if you comprehend its true meaning?"

"Well, I think I do. I will illustrate.
If I were to call you a gentleman I should unquestionably be indulging in most decided irony."

An Edison Phonograph can be bought for your price whether it is $16.25 or a higher price up to $162.50, all playing both Amberol and Standard Records.

But you cannot measure the Phonograph by money. Whether the price is $16.50 or $162.50, it is not much to pay for an instrument that will last a-lifetime, which will furnish you good music every day, which will furnish you better entertainment than you can buy in any other way, which will teach your children to love the best music,
which will bring into your own home
what other people pay large sums and go a long distance to hear.

DISFIGURING TORTUR- ING SKIN TROUBLE

Cannot be Cured by Salves and Ointments—The Blood Must be Purified.

A blemished skin, irritating sores, pimples, eczema, salt rheum and other skin disorders are all signals of distress, telling that your blood is impure or weak. You cannot cure eczema and other skin troubles with ointments and outward applications. These things may give temporary relief, but cannot cure, because the trouble is rooted in the blood and can only be removed by purifying and enriching the blood. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills speedily cure skin troubles because they enrich, purify and build up the impoverished blood that caused the trouble. As they feed and cleanse the blood the skin grows fair, the bloom of health returns and new strength is found. No other medicine has ever had such wonderful results in curing all diseases due to bad blood. Miss Elizabeth Gillis, Kensington, P. E. I., says:—"Words can hardly express how grateful I feel for what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done for me. For seven years before I began their use I was troubled with salt rheum. My hands and arms were nearly always a mass of torturing cracks and sores. I tried several doctors and spent a great deal of money without getting any benefit. Indeed my hands seemed to be getting worse all the time. Finally my brother persuaded me to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a trial and I am happy to say they have completely cured me. I used in all seven boxes, and I would not be without them in a case of this kind if they cost five dollars a box instead of fifty cents. I hope my experience will be of benefit to some other sufferer from skin trouble."

These Pills are sold by all medicine dealers or will be sent by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

HIS UNEUCKY DAY.

Wunst I got mad at maw,
I don't remember why,
But I 'st walked right off to school
'Thout tellin' her good-bye.

A big ol' lump came in my throat
An' purt' near made me cry,
For me an' maw was awful pals
An' allus kiss good-bye.

An' might' near ever-thing I did
Went wrong, looked like to me;
I stubbed my toe, an' tore my waist
An' fell an' skinned my knee.

I missed in 'rithmetic, an' lost
A chance to get up head,
An' in the spellin' class I left
A letter out of "dead."

An' that ol' lump growed, an' I says:
"S'pose if maw should die
Right now, an' me a-leavin' her
'Thout kissin' her, good-bye."

Gee! That's the longes' mornin'
At I ever spent, I know,
It seemed like more'n fifty years
Fore it was time to go.

Back to Life and Love;

OR, WAITING THROUGH WEARY

CHAPTER VI.—(Cont'd)

"I never heard of sich a thing in all the days of my life. no, not since I was a gal!—as a child like you being so took in! And I don't see now how it could a been. And I can't hardly believe it! Why, how old be ye?"

"You know, I shall be—be—sixteen, next—next Christmas," sobbed Marie.

"Shill you, now? How time do pass! And I was thinking as you was about thirteen or fourteen. The villain! But it was my fau't, it warn't your'n. What did you know? It was my fau't as should a took better care on ye. And so he promised to own you for his wife from the first, did he, and kept puttin' it off?"

"Yes," sobbed Marie.

"And he wanted you to follow him to the city, and leave me, did he? and he promised to own you there?"

"Yes."

"He wouldn't a kept his word, child. Them devils never keep their word with a girl who trusts them. They are liars, and sons of the father of lies. The comfort is they all go home to their daddy at last."

"Oh, Granny, he is not as bad as that. He is not bat at all. He wanted me to go with him, and I wouldn't leave you," wept Marie.

"He wanted you to go to the city with him, did he, and you wouldn't leave me? Well, you shall both be suited, you and him! You shall go to the city and shall not leave me. I'll go along of you. We'll go and hunt up my fine gentleman, and make him do ye justice! Breach o' promise it be! And werv aggravated at that! 'Dancin' bears must pay for their airs.' And he shall pay for hizen too. If he do acknowledge ye, you'll be a rich woman and me too! An' if he don't, it'll be thousands o' dollars out'n his pocket, and into you'n an' mine!" mumbled the old woman.

Poor Marie! She had been very much surprised and confounded by her grandmother's unexpected and hearty sympathy; but here was the sad solution of the problem of her conduct—cupidity. The hope of thousands of dollars, that in either case of acknowledged marriage or breach of promise, would come into Marie's possession, and practically into her own—and of the external decencies and comforts those thousands would secure to her, and which in her estimation would be splendors and luxuries.

Now, she looked upon her granddaughter as a mine of wealth, and busied herself in waiting on the girl as the girl, until this night, had waited on her.

She made Marie lie down on the bed and rest, while she herself prepared tea and toast which she persuaded her to take.

"Now you shan't go up and sleep on that hard pallet in the cold loft. You shall sleep with me," said the not two dollars in the house to meet the costs of interment.

Two days after this the body of old Granny Thompson was buried and poor Marie was left alone in the solitary hut.

She wrote to her lover in the city; but whether he ever received that letter is doubtful; that he never answered it is certain.

Three more letters were written, but they suffered the same fate as the first.

Then Marie gave up writing, and sat down in despair to await her fate.

CHAPTER VII.

Awful days and nights followed for the poor, deserted girl.

The dark days of December were upon her. Storms of rain and wind and snow followed each other in swift succession. The road to the village became impassable. She was without money and almost without food or fuel.

She had nothing left to eat but a few potatoes, stowed in the bottom of the cupboard, next the chimney corner, as the warmest place to keep them from freezing.

Nor had she anything to make her fire, except the brush wood from the foot of the mountain, which she would go and collect whenever an interval of the weather permitted her to do so.

But oh! the days of misery and nights of horror in that lone mountain hut, with nothing to think of but her wretched past and terrible future!

Had it not been for the shameful wrongs she had suffered, she might now have been in a comfortable and happy position as nursery governess to some of those children she so dearly loved. And this would have been an earthly Heaven to her humble and loving spirit.

And even now, abandoned, as she was, by the lover for whom she had staked all, even now, if she could have been pardoned and pitied, and cared for, a little while, by some good Christian woman, she would have looked forward to her maternity with humble, chastened joy, and devoted her future life to her child.

Yes, she would have been a good mother.

But now, abandoned, scorned, covered with contumely, until, driven to despair and madness, she believed herself to be deserted equally by God and man.

Alone in her hut by day and night, for weeks and weeks, with those demonic thoughts to tempt, and taunt, and phrensy her, who can wonder at the tragedy that soon followed?

I must get over this part of my story as quickly as I can, for it is too heart-rending for detail.

It was Christmas Eve, and the ground was covered a feet deep with hard frozen snow. The weather was clear though very cold.

took her own white apron and covered it over.

By this time her fingers were so stiff with cold that she had to beat and blow them, before she could do anything else.

She then turned about and found a little pile of brushwood, and a box of matches with which she made a fire. Then she searched for meal or flour with which to prepare gruel for the perishing girl on the bed.

But there was nothing of the sort to be found.

"Is there anything in the hoase I can fix you to eat?" she inquired, coming to Marie's side.

"Nothing, nor do I want any-thing," the girl answered feebly.

The farmer's wife groaned.

"I don't know what to do with you; but I reckon I better go at once and see if I can get you a doctor, and some victuals. Now you lay quiet till I come back," she said, as she hurried out of the house and jumped into her wagon.

She whipped up the old horse to a gait that made him stare. And she soon reached the village, when she gave information of the case to old Dr. Barton, the only medical man at hand.

Then, after hurriedly picking up the toys she had first set out to buy, she purchased some food and hurried back to the hut to feed the starving girl, whom, however, she could scarcely prevail upon to eat.

She waited beside the patient until the old doctor came, and then she returned to her own family, with the promise to send one of her negro women to take care of Marie Serafinne.

On seeing the condition of affairs at the hut, Dr. Barton's painful duty was clear before him first, to do what he could to save the wretched girl, and then to report the case to the proper authorities.

And the result of his action was this—that the same day at noon, the Coroner's jury met at the hut, and after a brief examination of the evidence, returned a verdict that the child, a prematurely born female infant, came to its death by stangulation at the hands of its mother, Marie Serafinne.

The little body was interred at the cost of the county. And a warrant was issued for the arrest of Marie Serafinne.

And in a state more dead than alive—indifferent also to life or death, she was taken from her bed, placed in a carriage, and driven to the county gaol at Pine Cliffs.

For the first week of her imprisonment she lay lingering on the brink of the grave, but by the skill of the prison doctor she was brought safely through the crisis of her illness.

On the first day of the New Year she awoke from long unconsciousness, and asked what day it was.

They told her it was New Year's day.

She played idly with her thin fingers for a few moments and then murmured:

"Only eight months and all this! I was free and happy in May—now I am here!"

No one answered her, there was indeed little pity for her.

She lay in prison from the last week in December, till the first week in March, when the Criminal Court sat at Pine Cliff.

Then she was brought out and put on trial for the murder of her child.

BABY'S OWN TABLETS A LITTLE LIFE SAVER

There is no other medicine for little ones so safe as Baby's Own Tablets, or so sure, in its beneficial effects. These Tablets specially destroy worms, break up colic, thus preventing deadly cramp, allay minute fever, and bring the little teeth through painless. Mrs. C. A. Weaver, Saskatchewan, Land, Sask., says: "I have used Baby's Own Tablets for my little one in cases of colic, stomach and bowel troubles, and other minor ailments, and have never known them to fail in speedily restoring the child's health. I think there is no medicine for babies like the Tablets." Sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Much distress and sickness in children is caused by worms. Mother Green's Worm Expeller gives relief by removing the cause. Give it a trial and you are cured.

USEFUL KNOWLEDGE

The negroes asked for a trial of the parson who was so kind, and was now in a good deal of haste.

"Can you tell me how to get a very good one?" he asked of the man who had been so kind to give him for thirty years.

"I can," said the other sadly. "But what's the use—the won't let you."

A Whole Sale of Usefulness.
The consumption of Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil has grown to great proportions. Notwithstanding the fact that it has been on the market for over fifty years, its popularity is as great as ever, and the demand for it in that period has very greatly increased. It is beneficial in all countries, and wherever introduced fresh supplies are constantly asked for.

at the girl, until this night, had waited on her.

She made Marie lie down on the bed and rest, while she herself prepared tea and toast which she persuaded her to take.

"Now you shan't go up and sleep on that hard pallet in the cold loft. You shall sleep with me," said the dame as she replenished the fire to keep it up all night, and then closed up the cottage, previous to retiring.

A heavy load was lifted from Marie's conscience. She had confessed to that one, to whom of all on earth she was only responsible. And she had been forgiven.

If that hard old dame could pity and pardon her, would not the merciful Lord, much more? She prayed and fell asleep, and for the first time in many days, she slept soundly until morning.

When she awoke, the sun was shining through the uncurtained window of the hut. The old woman was, or seemed to be, still asleep. She arose very cautiously lest she should awaken the old grandame, and quietly dressed herself, made up the fire and put on the kettle.

The dame slept on.

She made the corn griddle cake and put it on to bake. Took a smoked herring from its stick and put it on to broil, and then set the humble table for two, and sat down to wait.

And the dame slept on.

Not to waste time, while waiting, Marie took up her grandmother's knitting, and knitted for about fifteen minutes. And still the dame slept on.

"She sleeps later than I ever knew her to do," said the girl, as she arose and went to the bedside, and laid her hand softly on the forehead of the sleeper.

With a scream she started back. That forehead was ice-cold in death.

In a few moments she so far overcame her terror and repugnance as to take the lifeless hand in her own.

But it was as rigid as marble, and could not be moved from its position.

Full of wild horror, Marie ran from the house, and up the road leading to the village, and accosted the first person she met, who happened to be a countryman.

The alarm was soon given, and the hut was soon filled with the poor neighbors.

A physician was called, who pronounced the case a death from natural causes.

Then orders were given for a cheap burial at the country's expense. This was adding humiliation to sorrow in Marie's case, but she could not help it, for there were soon followed?

I must get over this part of my story as quickly as I can, for it is too heart-rending for detail.

It was Christmas Eve, and the ground was covered a feet deep with hard frozen snow. The weather was clear though very cold.

A farmer's wife, driving her own little wagon, was going to the village that morning to buy some cheap toys to put in her children's stockings that night.

As she passed along the narrow road that lies between the foot of the mountain ridge and the edge of the river, she came in sight of the hut under the cliff, occupied by Marie Serafinne.

And at the same moment, she saw that no smoke issued from the chimney, even on this bitter cold day, and she heard sounds of wild weeping and wailing proceeding from the house.

Mrs. Butterfield was, "after the most straitest sent a (female) Pharisee," so, though she drew up her horse before the hut, she hesitated and listened a full minute before she made up her mind to enter the dwelling of that "abandoned creature," as she called Marie.

But these were Christmas times, and full of all kinds inspirations.

So she got out of her cart, and leaving her steady, old family horse to stand and rest, she entered the hut.

A terrible sight met her eyes!

Marie Serafinne sat up in bed, raving, tearing her hair and accusing herself of—murder!

Before her lay the small body of a prematurely born child.

The poor little corpse was frozen stiff. The miserable mother was blue and shaking with cold for there was no fire on the hearth, and the bitter winds came in at the cracks in the walls and windows.

"Oh! you wretched, wretched creature! how came you to do this dreadful, dreadful deed!" inquired the farmer's wife, aghast at the sight.

"I don't know! I didn't mean to do it! I didn't even know when I did it! But then, I must have done it, because there was no one else here, not a soul but me, so of course I must have done it! Oh, me! I wish I had never been born!" exclaimed Marie, between her wild wailings.

"Of course you did it, and the child was dying!" Oh, you had better not say that! Don't you know the law? You've got to be asked the woman with a childer.

"Yes, yes, I know! But that's a trifle. I've borne so much a punishment that! But my child! my child! My dear, helpless child!" she cried, bursting into tears and sobbing as she seized and pressed the little frozen body to her bosom.

"I can't stand this! I can't stay here!" said the farmer's wife, beginning to feel deep pity mingled with her indignation and horror, and becoming half hysterical from their conflict. "Here! lie down and let me cover you up, for goodness sake! And tell me, if you can, where I can find something to kindle a fire, or you will freeze and die before you can make your peace with Heaven."

And without waiting for a reply she forced the feeble girl back up to the pillow, and covered and tucked her up carefully.

Then she took the little frozen babe and laid it out decently on a corner of the foot of the bed, and week in December, till the first week in March, when the Criminal Court sat at Pine Cliff.

Then she was brought out and put on trial for the murder of her child.

A PLAGUE OF BABOONS.

Ate the Crops in Nigeria so Fast Natives Gave up Farming.

In many parts of Nigeria, and especially among the hill regions of the northern provinces, baboons are one of the greatest plagues to the farmer and a source of menace to property and even to life. A Protectorate officer while engaged in business in a mountain village was informed by a local queen that her people could not continue their farming owing to the raids of baboons.

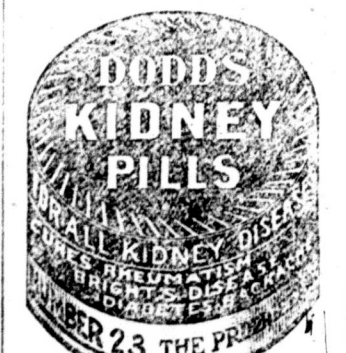

During the absence of the men a few weeks previously these beasts had actually come into the heart of the village and destroyed the crops, according to the Wide World Magazine. The natives are in constant dread of them and continually fear for the safety of their children.

Sir William Wallace relates that he has seen dozens of fifty to a hundred of these animals all in single file, and that lately he himself shot two enormous brutes who were grinning at him from the cliffs. They utter a nerve shattering and horrid bark.

They possess a regular system of defence and always have signallers out to watch for the approach of a possible enemy. These scouts are always the biggest monkeys and they signal by barks to their comrades when strangers are approaching.

If some men ever had any good intentions they must have chloroformed them.

HOW MRS. CLARK FOUND RELIEF

DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS
CURED HER.

Pleasant Point Matron Tells Her Suffering Sisters How to be Free
From the Terrible Pains that Make Life a Burden.

Pleasant Point, Ont., Nov. 15—(Special).—That most of the ills
that the suffering women of Canada
have to bear are due to disordered Kidneys, and that the natural cure for them is Dodd's Kidney Pills, is once more shown in the case of Mrs.
Merril C. Clarke, a well-known resident of this place and a prominent member of the Salvation Army.
Mrs. Clarke is always ready to give her experience for the benefit of her suffering sisters.

"My sickness commenced twenty years ago with the change of life," says Mrs. Clarke. "My health was in a bad state. Water would run from my head which would make me faint. When I came out of the fainting spells I took fits. I was bloated till I was clumsy. The pain
I suffered was awful. It would go to my feet and then to my head.
Many doctors attended me, and I tried many medicines, but nothing gave me relief till I used Dodd's Kidney Pills. The first box stopped the fits and seven boxes cured me completely."

Every suffering woman should use Dodd's Kidney Pills. They make strong, healthy Kidneys, and the woman who has good Kidneys is safe-guarded against those terrible pains that make miserable the lives of so many women.

OBEYING ORDERS.

Seamen are strict disciplinarians,
and a ship's crew seldom even dreams of interpreting a commander's orders otherwise than literally. Of the recognized rigid type was a certain English captain. The way the strict letter of his law was observed aboard his ship is described by a writer in the London Telegraph. One day, while the ship was in a certain port, the captain gave
a dinner to some town acquaintances,
and as the resources of the ship
were not great, some of the sailors were deputed to wait on the table
to re-enforce the insufficient number of stewards. As these men were not used to such work, each one was told exactly what service would fall to his share. The hour came,
and the dinner went merrily on.
Presently, however, one of the ladies wanted a piece of bread.
There was none near her, and the finely disciplined stewards seemed to be quite blind to her need. She turned her head and spoke softly
to the man at her elbow. "Bread, please," she said. He looked respectfully at the bread and then at her. It was evident that he would fain have helped her if it had been in his power. He saluted a fine naval style. "Can't do it, ma'am,"
said he. "I'm told off for 'taters.'"

The truth is all right, but so many people are ashamed to make good.

They Cleanse While They Cure.

MR. POULTRY RAISER

DON'T play into the hands of the POULTRY SPECULATORS who are scouring the country and picking up all the live birds they can lay their hands on. Naturally their object is to get the bulge on you and reap the benefit of a stronger and more profitable market later on in the season.

DON'T rush your Poultry on to the market too soon. Fatten and dress it properly yourself; then sell it when condition of both stock and market will warrant your securing the highest price of the season. The past three years have clearly proven that those who held their Poultry until the latter part of December, have reaped the largest returns for their outlay.

DON'T overlook the fact that the above remarks are simply in the nature of advice, and that if you have any Poultry on hand that you wish to dispose of NOW, we are in the best position of any house in the country. BARRING NONE, to handle same for you. We are in the business every day in the year,
and our 35 years of ever increasing business and a host of satisfied shippers are proof sufficient of our ability to please you.

HIS OWN GRANDFATHER.

Peculiar Relationship of an Italian Sailor to Himself.

It is seldom that a man claims to be his own grandfather. However, that is the position of an Italian sailor who some years ago married a widow with one child, a girl. His father fell in love with this girl and married her. Consequently his own father became his son-in-law, and his stepdaughter his mother. In a short time his wife gave birth to a son, who, naturally, was his father's stepbrother and, at the same time, his own uncle, since he was his stepmother's brother.

In due time his father's wife also gave birth to a boy, who was his brother and also his grandson, as he was the son of his daughter. His own wife was now his grandmother
as she was the mother of his mother.
Thus he was at one and the same time his wife's husband and grandson. Now, as the husband of a person's grandmother is naturally that person's grandfather, he is forced to the conclusion that he is his own grandfather.

ELEVEN DAYS IN THE BUSH.

A Traveller's Experience in North Queensland.

Mr. W. D. Piteairn, in his "Two Years Among the Savages of New Guinea," relates an adventure which befell a friend of his, Bob Sanderson, in north Queensland.
This friend, who was a man of good education and an experienced bushman, was on an expedition in search of new country adapted to stock raising. He had with him a party of men with tents and all necessary provisions for the journey.

After travelling about four hundred miles they found a good looking country, and pitched their camp. Mr. Sanderson wandered some distance from his party, and on returning, found the place deserted. His followers had struck their tents and made off.

He was four hundred miles from civilization, alone in the pathless
bush, the home of wild and treacherous blacks, without a morsel of food, and with no weapon but a revolver.

There was nothing for it but to face the inevitable, and he started on his long journey.

Day after day he plodded wearily
along, without any covering at night except the trees, finding here and there a few berries, and often suffering horribly from hunger and thirst.

One morning at sunrise he was descending a slope, when to his dismay, about fifty yards below him, he saw a large camp of blacks. One of them had just risen and was stretching himself directly in the face of the white man.

This was a moment to test the stuff of a man already reduced by days of continuous tramping and starvation. But Sanderson did not hesitate. With piercing shouts he rushed down upon the camp, firing
his revolver as he ran.

The blacks took it for granted that he had a large force at his back, and immediately broke in confusion and fled across the river.

For several days longer the man struggled on. Then on the eleventh day he sank to the ground, quite unable to go farther. Happily he was now near a cattle-station, and a stockman who was out riding stumbled upon him. He was taken into the house and every attention was bestowed upon him, and eventually he recovered his health and strength.

CURED HIS BLADDER TROUBLE.

Mr. Herbert Bauer of Davisville, says he uses Gin Pills a debt of gratitude which he can never repay. He suffered for years with Bladder Trouble, and could not pass Urine except by much straining, which caused great pain.

Mr. Bauer sent for a free sample of Gin that he ordered six boxes and began to take them regularly. A month's treat-

of Zam-Buk balm. He says:—

"Pimples and sores broke out all over my face and neck and notwithstanding all I did to try and cure them they spread. In places the skin was inflamed over big patches and caused me great pain and inconvenience. I was advised to try Zam-Buk and for several days I applied it to the sores anointing it often with the healing balm. It soon began to soothe the pain, and in a short time the sores ceased to be so angry and painful! With perseverance Zam-Buk healed the sores completely and made my skin as smooth and clear as possible.
I strongly recommend Zam-Buk to all who

The truth is all right, but so many people are ashamed to make good.

They Cleanse While They Cure.—The vegetable compounds of which Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are composed, mainly dandelion and mandrake, clear the stomach and intestines of deleterious matter and restore the deranged organs to healthful action. Hence they are the best remedy for indigestion available to-day. A trial of them will establish the truth of this assertion and do more to convince the ailing than anything that can be written of these pills.

AN END IN VIEW.

Kind Neighbor (accompanied by a large mastiff, to a little girl very much afraid of him)—"He's a good dog; he never hurts anyone. Don't you see how he's wagging his tail?"

Little Girl (still shrinking back)—"Yes, I see; but that isn't the end I'm afraid of."

POULTRY.

We call the attention of our readers to the advertisement of The Gunn, Langlois Company, of Montreal, which appears elsewhere in this paper. If you have any poultry to place on the market during the holiday season take their advice and communicate with them before rushing your goods to market. It is a good plan to write to these people if you have eggs, butter, poultry or honey to dispose of at any time.

LITTLE LEFT.

"Now," said the physician who is noted for his heavy charges, "I must take your temperature."
"All right," responded the patient, in a tone of utter resignation. "You've got about everything else I own. There's no reason why you shouldn't take that, too."

Pills of Attested Value.—Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are the result of careful study of the properties of certain roots and herbs, and the action of such as sedatives and laxatives on the digestive apparatus. The success the compounders have met with attests the value of their work. These pills have been recognized for many years as the best cleansers of the system that can be got. Their excellency was recognized from the first and they grow more popular daily.

THREE PEOPLE SUFFOCATED

Gas From a Coal Stove, Which Had Been Lighted for the First time.

A despatch from Aurora says: Suffocated by coal gas which escaped from a new stove, Mrs. Rebecca Flintoff, her granddaughter, Laura McDonald, and a boarder, Fred Blake, were found dead on Thursday in the home of Mrs. Flintoff on Machell avenue here. The discovery of the bodies was made about noon, when Mrs. C. W. Flintoff, a niece of Mrs. Flintoff, became suspicious that something was wrong when she did not notice any signs of life about the place. With a neighbor she went to the home of Mrs. Flintoff, and after knocking at the door and getting no response an entrance was forced. Admittance had to be secured by a rear door, as there were storm windows on the house. When the back door was forced in the smell of coal gas was so strong as to almost overcome those who had secured an entrance. Fred Blake, who was a boarder, was found dead in his bed, and on going into the room occupied by Mrs. Flintoff and her granddaughter, both were found dead. Drs. Hillary and Stevenson, who were hastily summoned, gave it as their opinion that the three persons had been dead at least twenty-four hours. An examination of the bodies indicated death from suffocation, and Coroner Scott of Newmarket, after making an investigation, decided that an inquest was unnecessary.

ANOTHER RAILWAY HORROR

Car Full of Japanese Laborers Submerged in British Columbia.

A despatch from Vancouver, B. C., says: Speeding through a howling storm in the darkness, while the people of Vancouver and New Westminster slumbered in the long Sunday morning rest, a gang of Japanese track laborers who had turned out to repair the ravages the Great Northern Railway had suffered during the worst night's weather in years went headlong to death, the bridge near Sapperton collapsing under the weight of the heavy work train. At least twenty and perhaps thirty unfortunate Japanese are reported dead, and others more or less seriously injured are in the hospital here and at Westminster.

The train left Vancouver in the morning at 5.30 and reached Sapperton at 6.15. The track passes by a bridge over the Burnett River, and a heavy flood had submerged the track on both sides. The train was in the swirling waters almost before those on board were aware the bridge had been reached. Locomotive 456, with Engineer

Beattiger at the throttle and Fireman Kent in the cab, passed over in safety, but the first car, carrying the heavy road-making apparatus, crashed through into the torrent, dragging the engine from one side and the car loaded with the men on the other into the water.

Many of those on board were entangled in the wreckage and were drowned without a chance for their lives. Others were killed outright. Three white men, the engineer, the fireman and Conductor Ellis, escaped, the two former with slight injuries. A white man named Davis was injured and is now in the Vancouver General Hospital. Three bodies recovered on this side of the river have been brought to Vancouver, five injured have been taken to the Memorial Hospital, while the remains of the other dead and others of the injured have been taken to Westminster. The Burnett River carried some poor battered bodies out to the Fraser.

CANADA AT CHICAGO SHOW.

Has Big Display at Exhibition of Live Stock.

A despatch from Chicago says: Canada is playing its usual important part in the International Live Stock Exposition, which is now on its full swing. Ontario, especially, is well represented. Beside the large display of stock from that province, the Agricultural College of Ontario has its young stock experts in judging contests. The Agricultural College of Ontario, which is probably the best known institution of its kind in the world, is conceded better than an even chance to win in the students' stock judging contest. SHOT BY A LUNATIC.

Buffalo Man Murdered in Public Library.

A despatch from Buffalo says: Without explanation or warning, but with a deliberation that made the accomplishment of his murderous purpose simple, Charles Strohl, an employee of a bakery, walked into the reading-room of the Buffalo Public Library on Friday, pulled a revolver and shot and instantly killed Franz Stendtz, who boarded with Mrs. Decola on Broadway. The murderer rushed out of the building, pursued by a number of people, and turning into an alley, exchanged shots with his pursuers, one shot striking an officer

MET HUSBAND ON CAR.

Woman Chas. E. King Left in England Had Him Arrested.

A despatch from Toronto says: A chance encounter on a street car between Charles E. King and the wife he had left in England five or six years ago led to the arrest of King on Wednesday afternoon on a charge of non-support. According to the police, King deserted his wife and three daughters and came to Canada. His wife, although having no knowledge of the whereabouts of her husband, came to this country and secured a position as companion to a Toronto society woman. About a week ago they were on a street car, when the wife was astonished to see King seated at the other end of the car. She went over and spoke to him. King for a time denied their relationship. His wife reported the matter to the morality department, and for the past few days P. C. Bloodworth, armed with a photo of the husband, has been watching the General Postoffice. On Wednesday his search was rewarded, and King was taken into custody. King, it is alleged, has been living with a woman who is known as his wife.

FIVE BRIDGEBURG MEN

Arrested in Connection With Thefts of Freight.

A despatch from Niagara Falls, Ont., says: Five young men, sons of prominent residents of Bridgeburg, were arrested on Thursday at Bridgeburg on charges connected with the robbing of freight cars on the Michigan Central Railway. The arrests were made by Inspector W. H. Mains of the Ontario Police, and M. C. R. Detectives Moynihan, McHugh and Heenan. The men arrested are: Morris Woodlee, night yardmaster for the M. C. R.; E. Finlayson, J. Girvin, John Kee and Clarence Lawson. Finlayson is charged with receiving stolen property, the others with theft. The first four men are employed by the railway at Bridgeburg. Lawson is the son of a prominent official and is unemployed. The prisoners were taken before Magistrate Rathven and remanded for eight days, bail being accepted in sureties of two thousand dollars each.

JOSEPHINE CARR IS DEAD.

Toronto Girl, Who Murdered a Baby, Dies in Northwest.

A despatch from Kingston says: News comes from the Northwest of the death of Josephine Carr, a young Toronto girl, who some years ago was sent to the penitentiary for murdering a baby. The youthful criminal was paroled two years ago and taken to the Northwest by some nuns to begin life anew. She was doing well, but was attacked by illness which resulted in death.

Josephine Carr lived on Greenwood avenue, Toronto, in 1905. An infant child named Harry Murray was resting in a baby carriage in front of the T. Eaton Company's store on May 19 of that year, when Josephine came alone and stole the outfit, disposing of the child by tumbling it down the side of the railway track into a culvert, where its dead body was discovered a couple of days later.

DYNAMITE IN THE OVEN.

Homesteader Nearly Kills Wife and Wrecked House.

A despatch from Lethbridge says: August Lesowski, a homesteader, four miles south of Bow Island, on Tuesday put two sticks of dynamite in the stove to thaw. His wife saw smoke coming from the oven and opened the door. The dynamite exploded, and pieces of steel struck Mrs. Lesowski in several places and nearly blinded her. She was taken to Lethbridge Hospital, and will likely live. The house was wrecked, but no one else was hurt.

BANKER SENT TO PRISON.

Sentenced to Ten Years for Embezzlement.

A despatch from Madison, Wisconsin, says: Phil Allen, jun., former Vice-President of the First National Bank of Mineral Point, Wis., appeared on Friday before Judge Sanborn in the United States District Court, pleaded guilty to four out of twenty-six counts in the indictment against him, and was sentenced to ten years in the Federal Prison at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, the maximum under the law of any one count. Allen was charged with embezzling $168,000 from the Mineral Point bank.

WILL BE RUSH FOR GOLD

Hundreds of Prospectors Are Going to Porcupine Lake.

A despatch from Toronto says: There will be a rush into the Porcupine Lake gold district in northern Ontario during the coming winter which will equal that into Gowganda of last winter is the opinion of Mr. A. B. Reading of Toronto, who has just returned from that part of the country. There are already hundreds of prospectors in the district, he says, and coming down the river on his way back to civilization he met no less than eighteen canoes with prospectors on the way up. The rivers and lakes are now frozen up, and gangs of men are at work cutting a road through the bush from the head of Frederick House Lake to permit of the entrance of sleighs. There are hundreds of prospectors waiting at Haileybury until this road is completed, and more prospectors are arriving at Haileybury every day. So far the discoveries of free gold in this district have been confined to within a radius of three miles from Porcupine Lake, but the prospectors have branched out for about ten or twelve miles. The discoveries made are all on the surface. There are marked indications of erosion in this section, while surrounding it are swamps and clay several feet in thickness, which facts lead prospectors to believe that the gold extends over a considerable area.

ITALIAN HANGED.

Spanelli Pays Penalty for Murder of Chinaman.

A despatch from North Bay says: Sam Spanelli, a young Italian, was hanged here early on Friday morning. He passed a rather restless night, being up several times. He walked calmly to the scaffold. Life was declared extinct at 7.17, thirteen and three-quarter minutes after the trap fell. Spanelli was convicted before Judge Riddell of killing a young Chinaman, Ming Chew, in a restaurant brawl at Haileybury, July 30th, using a dirk twelve inches long. Special precautions were taken by Sheriff Varin in view of sinister rumors that the prisoner was a Black Hand leader, and that Italians were coming into town in large numbers in pursuance of a plot to dynamite the jail. Four extra constables were placed on duty but nothing occurred to cause trouble.

LANDSLIDE IN GORGE.

Tons of Rock Fell on Railway at Niagara Falls.

A despatch from Niagara Falls, Ont., says: One of the worst landslides in many months bed the Gorge Railroad up for some time on Wednesday. Tons of rock fell from the river bank, burying the scenic railway tracks. Dynamiting had to be resorted to before the debris could be cleared away. No one was injured.

Toronto, Nov. 30.—Stockers and feeders were in active demand, especially short-keep steers and heifers. Milkers and springers were a little easier; this was due rather because the cows were not in the best condition than to any falling off in the demand. Sheep and lambs were steady to firm. Calves firm and unchanged. Hogs weak at $7.35 to $7.40 f.o.b. and $7.60 to $7.65, fed and watered.

SASKATCHEWAN IS HAPPY.

The Crop all Thrashed or Securely Stacked.

A despatch from Regina says: It is estimated by C. P. R. officials that not more than five per cent. of the entire crop in Saskatchewan remains unthrashed at the present time, and this is all securely stacked. In the other two Provinces all the grain was thrashed some time ago. All the requirements of cars for shipping have been remarkably well met.

FOR GERMANY'S NAVY.

Government Asks an Appropriation of $108,500,000.

A despatch from Berlin says: The Nord Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung prints the chief features of the naval budget. These provide for a total expenditure of $108,500,000. This is an increase of $7,000,000. The ship building and armament requirements are estimated at $90,650,000, an increase of $1,950,000, being necessitated by a final appropriation for the construction of the battleships Ostfriesland, Helgoland, and Ersatz Bismarck. Provision is also made for the completion of the cruiser-battleship Von der Tann. The sum of $3,750,000 is also asked for the construction of and experiments with submarines, this being an increase of $1,250,000 over the previous budget. The expenditure for naval artillery is estimated at approximately $19,000,000, an increase of $2,500,000.

THE ENGINEER MAY DIE.

Bad Smash-up in C. N. R. Yard at Saskatoon.

A despatch from Saskatoon says: On Wednesday the C. N. R. Winnipeg train going south while entering the yards ran through an open switch at half speed into a string of freight cars standing on a siding. The front trucks of the engine left the track and a box car was overturned, while the flatcar standing next to it was badly smashed and driven off the rails. The fireman jumped previous to the collision, but Engineer Shuttleworth received what is believed to be fatal injuries and was taken to St. Paul's Hospital. The passengers and the other members of the train crews were fortunately not hurt.

IMMIGRATION RETURNS.

A Large Increase in the Past Seven Months.

A despatch from Ottawa says: The total immigration into Canada for the first seven months of the fiscal year, April to October inclusive, was 138,234, as compared with 109,566 for the same months last year, an increase of 26 per cent. Immigration for October was 17,391, as compared with 9,959 in October of last year. Arrivals at ocean ports totalled 8,032, an increase of 78 per cent. Arrivals from the United States totalled 9,269, an increase of 102 per cent., as compared with the same month of last year.

ENTOMBED IN A MINE.

Over Two Hundred Japanese Miners in Danger.

A despatch from Tokio says: Heavy loss of life is feared as the result of an explosion on Thursday in a coal mine at Onoura, Fukuoka Province. Fifteen men are known to have perished, while 223 miners are entombed in the workings. Every effort is being made to rescue them, but their fate as yet is in doubt.

The Story of the Dollars

The Ideal way of earning money is to make your dollars work for you.

Make your dollar work where it will earn the most, by seeking for the investment that will pay the best.

The dollar that earns but 2 or 3 per cent. is almost as bad as the idle dollar which earns nothing.

We advise Taxicab Stock at $6.00 per share, par value $5.00, for beginning January, 1910, it can pay a dividend of 10 per cent. per annum or 2 1-2 per cent. quarterly.

The Idle Dollar

The dollar that is tied up in bad investments—

—the dollar that is invested in (conservative) low interest bearing securities, usually sold at a high premium—

—the dollar that is not invested anywhere, reposing in the old stocking under the mattress, or in the tin teapot on the pantry shelf—

—the dollar that buys the things that you would be better without—

—this is the idle dollar.

The Idle dollar gives no man comfort in holding, keeping, owning or wasting.

The Busy Dollar

The dollar that is working for you all the time—

—the dollar that brings you a big percentage of returns—

—the dollar that is invested in good commercial stocks or industrial enterprises and earns away above the ordinary bank interest—

—the dollar that by quick turns and clear foresight doubles, trebles and quadruples itself—

—this is the busy dollar.

To keep your dollar busy make it work for you and earn big returns.

An investment in Taxicab Stock will prove the best known medium.

The Ideal Investment

An industry that fills a long felt want, which supplies an insistent and growing demand, which has possibilities of great future expansion, is the ideal investment.

Such a one is Toronto's System of Taxicabs, for in barely six months it has proved its big earning capacity.

What it may do in the future, with an outfit increased many times, you can only surmise.

Taxicab Stock has a great future, and the time to buy Taxicab Stock is now.

Subscriptions will be accepted up to 100 shares in the order received at this office.

QUEBEC BRIDGE TENDERS.

Cost of the New Piers Will Total $2,500,000.

A despatch from Montreal says: Tenders are being asked for the re-structure of the Quebec bridge, the estimate of which is $2,500,000, to replace the old piers, which cost $1,500,000. In May next, it is understood that tenders will be asked for the superstructure, which is to be built of nickel steel instead of carbon steel, and weighing 130,000,000 pounds, against 70,000,000 pounds, the weight of the former structure. All the present piers will be demolished. The new north pier will be located 55 feet further out in the river. The total cost is estimated at $10,000,000 and the bridge is to be completed in four years.

FOR FIVE NEW BRANCHES.

G. T. P. Subsidiary Company to Make Application.

A despatch from Ottawa says: The Grand Trunk Pacific Branch Lines Company will apply at the present session of Parliament for legislation empowering it to construct five new lines. Three of these will connect Calgary, Regina and Moose Jaw with the main line of the G. T. P. The fourth branch will run from the G. T. P. main line to the company's Battleford line, and the fifth from Regina to Lethbridge and thence to the company's line between Calgary and the provincial boundary of Alberta. The company asks bonding privileges of $30,000 a mile.

BURNED HERSELF TO DEATH.

Woman Soaked Clothing in Oil and Ignited It.

A despatch from Niagara Falls, N. Y., says: Mrs. Florence Bishop, 60 years old, committed suicide on Wednesday at her home in Coomer's Road, a few miles from this city. She took her life by soaking her garments in coal oil and incinerating herself. Alexander Gilhes found Mrs. Bishop's body in a smoke house. It was a mass of burned flesh and charred bones. A note found among the dead woman's effects told of the writer's determination to end her life by fire.

TWO TUGS SEIZED.

Important Capture Made on Lake Superior.

A despatch from Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., says: On Thursday afternoon Game Warden Calbeck made an important seizure of tugs and fishing equipment at Richardson's Harbor, Lake Superior. The tugs Arga and Alberta belonging to Gerow Bros. of Rosport were captured, the charge being fishing out of season. Seven men, including four of the Gerow brothers, were brought to the Soo, and served with papers on Friday. A large quantity of fish were taken with the seized tugs.

BATTERED BY HIGHWAYMEN.

Wm. Mitchell of Toronto Found Unconscious at Montreal.

A despatch from Montreal says:

William Mitchell of Toronto was badly used up by highwaymen on Wednesday night. He met two men at the Blue Bells Hotel and they had several drinks. Later Mitchell was found unconscious and badly battered and minus his money. His two assailants, named Haggerty and Powers, were arrested and pleaded guilty on Thursday morning.

BEGINS TEN-YEAR TERM.

Mrs. Robinson, Warren Infanticide, Arrives at Kingston.

A despatch from Kingston says: Mrs. Robinson, the farmer's wife, of Warren, Ont., whose sentence of death for causing the death of several illegitimate infants of her two daughters, was commuted to ten years in the penitentiary, arrived on Thursday afternoon and was driven to the prison, where she was placed in the female ward.

GRAFT IN GERMAN NAVY.

A despatch from Kiel, Germany, says: Extensive financial irregularities have been discovered in the department which furnishes meat for the navy. The discrepancies are especially serious in the division through which torpedo boats are supplied. It is likely that arrests will be made very soon.

THE FINANCES OF ONTARIO

The Provincial Government Makes an Important Announcement.

A despatch from Toronto says: Owing to the fact that the Provincial revenue for the short year of ten months is considerably over the estimate and that the Province has not spent as much as was voted by the Legislature last session, Hon. A. J. Matheson stated on Friday morning that Ontario's revenue would be within $100,000 of the expenditure, while the calendar year would show a surplus of several hundred thousand dollars. In this estimate no account is taken of capital expenditure on the power scheme, the T. & N. O. Railway and good roads.

The subtraction of the months of November and December removes considerable revenue, notably in license fees and timber duties. The increase in revenue over the estimates for the ten months amounts to about $1,250,000, the most notable increases being: Crown lands, $500,000; law stamps, $5,000; public institutions, $20,000; Central Prison industries, $7,000; Provincial Secretary's Department, $82,000; Agricultural Department and stationary engineers, $28,000; succession duties, $275,000; supplementary revenue, $29,000; license branch, $50,000; T. & N. O. Railway, $250,000; game and fish branch, $17,000, and collected arrears of Algoma taxes, $8,000.

THEY WANT THEIR DEAD.

Sad Scenes Round the Sealed Shaft of St. Paul Mine.

A despatch from Cherry, Illinois, says: Not since the recovery of the first bodies from the depth of the fire-wrecked St. Paul mine here have such scenes been witnessed as the heartrending picture at the sealed mouth of the mine on Thursday. Hundreds of grief-stricken women, with worn faces and fatherless children clinging in fear to their dresses, gathered in groups about the shaft of the mine, sobbing and moaning. Their sacred dead are lost for ever. The realization of the horrible end of the great disaster has aroused a frantic grief. Women fell on their knees, dragging their children with them, sobbing out their cries of despair. Many men in Cherry still cling to the belief that with the sealing of the mine living men among the nearly 200 still missing have been doomed to death. Mine experts scout the idea and state that such is an impossibility.

"Nothing can be done until the fire has died out, and the extreme danger of entering the shaft is eliminated," declared W. W. Taylor, superintendent of the mine.

The dissatisfaction of the miners at the step taken by the mine officials was openly voiced.

"They are thinking only of saving property and don't care about the dead," exclaimed one grey-haired Scotch miner. "We want our dead. The women want the bodies. The company will never get any service from these miners."

Rumors, which were started by remarks of miners who lingered about the shaft, had it that there existed a plot to "rush" the mine plant and destroy the sealing. The company officials scouted the idea and declared they did not expect trouble.

Obituary.

W. L. Latimer, Palace Road, an old and much respected resident, passed away Wednesday afternoon, aged about seventy years. Deceased suffered a stroke of paralysis a couple of weeks ago and since that time has been gradually sinking. He was a consistent member of the Methodist church. Besides his wife, one daughter survives. Mrs. (Rev.) Coone, Calgary, Alberta. Mrs. Coone reached home on Monday but her father did not recognize her, being unconscious for the past couple of days. The funeral takes place to-day at 11 a. m., interment in Belleville.

Some misapprehension seems to exist in the minds of the people of the town with regard to the local work undertaken by the W. C. T. U. Appeals have come to the Union for the relief of poverty, which they have been unable to grant simply because no funds for that purpose have been placed at their disposal. The special work they are carrying on is in the form of evangelistic meetings, and classes for instruction in sewing. The receipts from the annual Rummage Sale barely cover the rent of the room, fuel, materials for sewing, &c. In some towns the W. C. T. The body of John Johnston, who disappeared from Napanee about four weeks ago, was found on Tuesday afternoon in the lake at Kingston. It is supposed that while intoxicated he wandered off one of the Kingston docks. The remains were brought to Napanee on Wednesday and the funeral was held on Thursday morning.
Deceased leaves a widow and one daughter and one son. He was aged about forty-seven years.

The "At Home" and sale of aprons
and fancy articles held at the residence of Mrs. F. F. Miller, under the auspices of the Churchwoman's Guild, was very successful. The receipts were most satisfactory, being $75.00, every article being sold. The programme was a feature of the evening,
being of a high order and most enjoyable. The executive of the Guild wish to extend their hearty thanks to all who took part in this programme, and feel it is largely due to their efforts, and to those who worked so well and faithfully, that the evening proved such a success both socially and financially.

The Companion for Canadians

The Youth's Companion has long been distinguished for its famous British contributors. Tennyson and Gladstone are noteworthy among those of former years, and the roll includes such names as Rudyard Kipling, Sir Edwin Arnold, Sir Reginald Palgrave, and the Duchess of Sutherland.
During 1910 The Companion will be enriched by the contributions of many British writers. Among these are the Duke of Argyll (who will write on the Scottish and English clans), Lady Henry Somerset, Rt. Hon. James Bryce, British ambassador to the United States, Jane Barlow, F. T.
Bullen, Sir H. H. Johnston, Sir James Crichton-Browne, E. W. Thomson, and Rev. W. J. Dawson. (who will write on fruit-growing in Kootenay.) Every new Canadian subscriber will find it of special advantage to send at once the $2.00 for the new 1910 Volume. Not only does he get the beautiful "Venetian" Calendar for 1910, lithographed in thirteen colors and gold, but all the issues of The Companion for the remaining weeks of 1909 from the time the subscription is received.

CONWAY.

Everyone is much taken up over having rural free delivery of the daily mail in this vicinity. It is very convenient to the farmers indeed.

Farmers are hauling coal from Bath,
as there was none stored here this year.

Mr. Kellar, of Harrowsmith, has leased Edward Morrow's farm for the coming year.

Rod Wright has returned after an absence of a couple of months.

Earella Moon visited friends in Napanee recently.

Fletcher Young has taken a trip to California.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Spearling visited relatives in Kingston last week.

Mr. Palmer, of England, has come to spend a Canadian winter with his sister, Mrs. Wilson.

Richard Whitfield is moving into the village for the winter.

Messrs. Ruttan, Hanlan and Couper, who were prospecting in the west,
have returned home.

You Use it. They Use it.

Sickness and Superstition.

For the cure of epilepsy, or the falling sickness, numerous were the charms that were invoked long ago.
A very common remedy among the poor people about London and particularly in Essex was to cut the tip of a black cat's tail in order to procure three drops of blood, which were to be taken in a spoonful of milk and repeated three days successively. If the patient was informed of the composition it lost its efficacy. The patients also were to creep head foremost down some three pairs of stairs three times a day for three successive days.

Pleasing Remembrance.

Mrs. Symington invited our Bible class of the Western Methodist Church Thursday evening to Mr. Caton's luncheon parlor, where they were bountifully served with oysters and everything else that a good appetite could desire. After tea the present and past officers and many of the class gave short and pithy addresses on the blessings they got from the teaching and study of the word. Mr. T. Symington gave a good talk on the power of organization, a subject he handled to his credit and a help to the class. Miss Thompson sang a number of fine solos in her sweet clear voice that were enjoyed. Mrs. Symington gave a summary account of one of her eastern trips, taking the class in thought from her home to Liverpool, then gave a description of the Island of Malta, which was still fresh in their minds, having recently gone through these with the Great Apostle Paul on his way to Rome. Mrs. Symington spoke of her great pleasure in meeting her class at the annual home gathering of her class, that she looks upon as her Brothers and Sisters. This class was established in 1875, thirty-three years ago, and taught by her ever since, organized and chartered 1907, and under organization has grown in membership to seventy-five. Master James Websdale, as class delegate, gave a summary account of the Ontario Sabbath School convention in Toronto last month. Mr. Gibbard, superintendent of the school, gave the closing address and prayer.

THE BEST CHRISTMAS GIFT.

Exciting Experience of a Famous Animal Trainer.

"Show a lion that you are his master and he will be submissive; once permit him to get the notion that you fear him and his antipathy will increase," said Frank C. Bostock, the famous animal trainer.

In illustration of the lengths to which owners of wild beasts will go in order to retain control of them Bostock told the following story:

"Some years ago when we were at the Hippodrome, in Paris, I decided as a special attraction to go into the arena with Wallace, a huge African lion that all our trainers had despaired of. The house was crowded. We placed the lion in a cage sixteen feet square, and this was put inside a twenty foot ring. Two assistants were stationed in the outer ring in case of accident. I had scarcely got inside when the beast leaped at me. It bit right through my left hand and with one blow ripped the flesh off my back. 'Clear out!' I shouted to the two men in the outer ring. 'I am going to open the doors and let him into the big arena.'

"I was as furious as the lion. My pride as a trainer was wounded deeper than my back. I flung open the doors, and the lion sprang out. The blood was pouring from my wounds, but in the excitement of the moment I felt no pain—only a mad desire to be master. I picked up a 'property' chair, and when the beast came again I struck it full across the muzzle; then, seizing my whip, I actually became the aggressor.

"The audience was in something like a panic, and loud cries of 'Enough, enough!' were raised. But I hadn't finished. In ten minutes I had subjugated Wallace to such an extent that he cowered like a dog. I got out of the cage and just fainted away. From that day no one attempted to teach Wallace."—Pearson's Weekly.

The Most Interesting Daily

The "Toronto Daily Star" is strong in special features for Women.

There are the daily Home Pages—the daily instalment of a good story—the Social and Personal columns—the illustrated daily Fashion Hints.

But the "Star's" strongest appeal to the wide-awake woman is the unusually interesting way in which it presents the news of all the world, day by day.

There is not a dry line in it—yet it is not sensational or in any way "yellow." Just good, clean, wholesome, well-written accounts of everything that is going on, that's worth reading about.
